TOKYO POLITICAL CRISIS: BUDGET BATTLE

GERMANY'S HINT TO DEBTORS

LOWER TARIFFS OR NO PAYMENTS

STRIKING PAPEN SPEECH

Berlin, Oct. 16.

Germany is not in a position to pay even her commercial debts and a brighter outlook is not possible unless outlets are found for German goods by a reduction of tariff barriers.

Thus the Chancellor, Captain von Papen, in an important speech at Westphalia to-day.

Referring to the impossibility of releasing the foreign money at present invested in Germany, the Chancellor said that foreign countries must be expected to "consolidate" the money that they have lent to Germany.

The German Government at the forthcoming world economic conference would do its utmost to persuade foreign creditor nations that they could only logically expect the payment of Germany's debts if they were prepared to open their frontiers to German goods.

OTTAWA CRITIC.

The Ottawa Conference, said Captain von Papen, unfortunately was not conducive to a revival of confidence in raising world economic barriers.

At the same time, it was early to abandon hope that the world economic conference would make substantial progress in this respect.

Pointing out in connexion with the impending quota on imports, which has aroused a storm of protest and a warning from Dr. Luther, President of the Reichsbank, that other countries have done the same thing, Captain von Papen declared that Germany had not resorted to a quota system as a reprisal, but had decided upon its policy in order to save German agriculture.

Captain von Papen announced that a programme had been drawn up for a big propaganda campaign abroad for German goods.

DISARMAMENT AIMS.

Turning to the disarmament problem, the German Chancellor reiterated that Germany's aim was not to return to the level of her neighbours. She wanted the disarmament of the entire world, equal rights and security for all, with a European state of affairs in which there should be no hegemony, no system of alliances, but a state in which the nations could strive for humanity.—Reuter.

FRENCH RAILWAY DISASTER

SEVEN KILLED AND 15 INJURED

Paris, Oct. 16.

Seven persons were killed and fifteen injured in a railway smash at Coutanche to-day.

A passenger train rushing at a high speed down a steep incline, crashed into a goods train at the bottom. The front coaches were converted into a contorted mass of metal and matchwood.—Reuter.

Following a recently published regulation, the Police are now taking action against cyclists who neglect to provide their machines with red reflectors attached to indicate their presence on the roads to vehicles behind them. One lad who appeared before Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court to-day when told that he was not to be allowed to ride his bicycle unless he had a licence, said: "I have no money for any commission," said defendant. He was informed that it would mean another week in gaol.

WARRANT FOR EX-BROKER

MR. W. JACKSON "WANTED"

FRAUD ALLEGATION

We learn from official sources to-day that a warrant has been issued by the local police for the arrest of Mr. William Jackson, former Hongkong broker, who left the Colony suddenly some few weeks ago.

The precise nature of the charge on which the warrant has been taken out has not been disclosed, but it is indicated that it is one involving allegations of fraud.

Mr. Jackson, who had been a resident of Hongkong for many years, was for a brief time Secretary of the Hongkong Stock Exchange, and later he set up in business on his own account, as an "outside" broker, under the firm name of the Hongkong Stock and Share Agency.

LEFT FOR AUSTRALIA.

He is believed to have left for Australia, on the same boat as his wife and young daughter, last month, and various stories have been in circulation regarding the circumstances under which he departed.

Up to the present, no information has been received of any arrest made under the warrant.

"NASTY WORDS" PASSED

ASSAULT SEQUEL IN COURT

A two-fisted he-man is Lee Fat. With one hand he held a bamboo pole and with the other a knife, and he used both weapons to serious effect on Yee Heung with whom he had a gambling dispute during the week-end. Yee Heung received cuts to his arm and shoulder, and a scalp wound which necessitated his going to a doctor for treatment. The Court sequel, with Lee Fat as the defendant, took place before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court to-day.

Inspector Dick, prosecuting, stated that "nasty words" were exchanged. One man said that the other ate "poor food", while the man who was accused of under-nourishment retallied by underlining the other's clothes as "dilapidated."

His Worship was told that in the charge-room, Yee Fat's mother offered to pay $5 compensation to the man whom her son had injured. Lee Fat would not think of it, and restrained her.

His Worship in giving his decision, ordered Lee Fat to pay a fine of $25, or three weeks' imprisonment, and compensation amounting to $5. "I have no money for any compensation," said defendant. He was informed that it would mean another week in gaol.

UNITED INDIA IN SIGHT

MOSLEM LEADER'S CONFIDENCE

AGREEMENT AT LUCKNOW

Lucknow, Oct. 16.

"Within a fortnight we shall have a united India," asserted the Moslem leader, Shaik Ali, at the conclusion of the All-Parties Moslem Congress to-day.

The Congress achieved a complete agreement between the protagonists of the separatist and the joint-electorate schools of thought, and a decision was reached to negotiate with the Hindu and other communities towards communal unity.

A meeting is likely to be arranged between the Hindu and Moslem delegates very shortly on the basis of the agreement reached at Lucknow. If an agreement is possible, it is felt that the Sikhs will not be long in falling into line.

Any agreement reached with the full approval of all the communities would supersede the electoral reform scheme laid down by the British Government.—Reuter.

The public examination in bankruptcy of Peter Leong Hing Kee, alias Leong Kam-hung, of 22, Ice House Street, and Augustin Leong Hing Kee, alias Leong Kam-luen, of 59, Des Voeux Road Central, former proprietors of the Hotel Metropole and the Savoy Hotel, took place at the Supreme Court this morning before the Chief Justice (Sir Joseph Kemp).

In connection with the former debtor, the examination was closed, and in the latter an adjournment was granted.

MUCH APPRECIATED BY MRS. AMERY

The following letter has been received by Mrs. Southern from Mrs. Amery, Chairman of the Women's Committee of the Empire Fellowship, in acknowledgment of the bound album of Press cuttings and photographs giving particulars of Hongkong's celebration of Empire Day which was forwarded to her by the local Empire Day Committee:

112 Eaton Square,
London, S.W.1.

Dear Mrs. Southern,
Will you express to the Empire Day Committee my deep and sincere thanks for their most interesting and delightful present to me.

MILITARY EXPENSES

HEAVY INCREASE ESTIMATED

ARAKA V. TAKAHASHI

(Special to "Telegraph").

Tokyo, Oct. 17.

Hints of the development of a big political crisis over the Budget are already emerging from Government quarters.

The preliminary estimates for the next budget are said to total Yen 2,400,000,000, or Y.600,000,000 more than the previous high record.

A large proportion of this sum is required for naval and military purposes. Of the total, it is stated that over Yen 1,000,000,000 is included in the Army and Navy Estimates.

This figure is likely to produce serious difficulties between General Araki, the Minister for War, and Mr. Takahashi, the Minister of Finance.

DIRECT TAXATION.

The Minister of Finance takes strong objection to the military proposals for an increase in direct taxation, while General Araki demands large increases in the inheritance tax (death duties) and the income tax in order to cover the big expenditure.

Many forecast that General Araki will win the battle of the finances, in which event it seems more than probable that Mr. Takahashi will tender his resignation and carry the Cabinet with him, thus creating a bigger crisis than followed the assassination of the former Prime Minister, Mr. Inukai.—Reuter.

WOMAN HIT WITH CLOG

YOUNG MAN TO PAY COMPENSATION

An elderly woman appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy to-day with three stitches in her upper lip where it had been cut by a blow with a wooden clog. Keung Leung, 26, was accused of having caused the injury.

Inspector Dick, prosecuting, said the woman kept a hiring library for a living, and had occasion to call on a customer for the return of books long overdue. The man, who kept a goods stall, was absent but Keung Leung, his fook, was there when the woman called.

"She kept asking me for the books although it was not I who hired them from her," he said. He complained of her conduct in deliberately upsetting his stall and throwing his goods on the ground.

His Worship pointed out that Keung Leung was not justified in taking the law into his own hands.

On a point of compensation, Inspector Dick told his Worship that it was a Government doctor who attended to the woman, but an ambulance had been used for her conveyance to hospital and that had cost $3.

His Worship's decision was that defendant should make good this expense and also to pay $5 compensation to the woman. Furthermore, he was fined $10, or 14 days in default of payment of this fine.

beautifully bound, is full of such interesting and inspiring expressions of faith and belief in our great Empire and for me it is made more precious by the kind thoughts which have sent it to me.

I shall always keep it with even added thoughts of kindness and of profound interest in lovely Hongkong.
Yours very sincerely,

POINCARÉ RETURNS

FRENCH SENATE'S ELECTION

ONE SURPRISE

Paris, Oct. 16.

The first ballot in the Senatorial Elections has resulted in the election of M. Poincaré, M. Gardey (Minister of Agriculture), M. Paul Boncour (Minister for War) and M. Lucien Saint (Resident-General of Morocco).

M. Poincaré, who returns to politics after a lapse of some years, at the age of 72, was elected for the Moussé securing 692 votes out of 822.

Apart from half-a-dozen gains for the Ministerial Radicals, the election for 111 Senators (held every three years), left the complexion of the Senate practically unchanged.

The only surprise was the defeat of M. Marraud, a former Minister, by M. Andre Fallieres, son of the former President of France.—Reuter.

THREE TO TWO ON ROOSEVELT

BETTING ON U.S. ELECTION

Washington, Oct. 13.

With only a little more than three weeks left before the Presidential election and the campaign under way with full steam on, leading betting commissioners in New York to-day were posting odds on the outcome 3 to 2 against President Herbert Hoover's reelection.

Reports from over the country tended to indicate that these odds represented more or less a composite opinion of what the chances held in store.

Democratic leaders are jubilant over the situation, as they compile the reports from their various sectional of such indicators as the Literary Digest's straw vote, which has proved infallible on previous trials.

Republican leaders, however, obviously feeling no great amount of assurance, are hopeful that sentiment may swing in the last three weeks.

DWIGHT DAVIS BEREAVED

WIFE PASSES AWAY IN BERLIN

St. Louis, Oct. 11.

Mrs. Helen Brooks Davis, wife of Dwight F. Davis, former Governor-General of the Philippines and former Secretary of War, died in Berlin, according to advices received at the Davis home here to-day.

Mrs. Davis suffered from arthritis for the past four years, most of which time she spent in Europe seeking a cure.

Mrs. Davis prevented her from visiting the Philippines while Mr. Davis was Governor-General there. A desire on the part of Mr. Davis to be with his wife was given as the chief cause for his resignation from the Philippines post last winter.

It was stated at Police Headquarters to-day that no arrests have yet been made in connexion with the hold-up in Tai Po Road, Kowloon, on Saturday, when men armed with revolvers robbed a Portuguese couple, Mr. A. V. Tavares and Miss Maria Botelho, of jewellery valued at over $1,000.

MUSSOLINI ON WORLD CRISIS

COMPLETE BREAKDOWN STILL POSSIBLE

THE FUTURE WITH YOUTH

Rome, Oct. 16.

Warning that a breakdown of the present civilisation was still possible, Signor Mussolini urged the responsibility of youth in a speech to-day.

The Prime Minister was reviewing twenty-five thousand Fascist in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the meeting at Milan at which the march to Rome was planned.

He declared that those who believed the present world crisis to be capable of solution by miraculous remedies were on the wrong track.

"Either this is a cyclical crisis, in which case it will solve itself, or it is the breakdown of a system, in which case we are facing a transition from one epoch of civilisation to another."

The second decade of Fascism, he went on, presented a task no less severe than the first and its accomplishment rested with youth.

"Nobody is so old," he declared, "as the person who is jealous of youth."—Reuter.

RUSSO-JAPANESE RELATIONS

CHARGES AGAINST SOVIET

ARMS SUPPLIES TO VOLUNTEERS

Harbin, Oct. 17.

Allegations that the Soviet Government is supplying arms and ammunition to the anti-Manchukuo forces are the subject of strong comment in the Japanese-owned Harbin Times.

The newspaper definitely states that the anti-Manchukuo Volunteers are equipped with Russian machine-guns and ammunition, declaring that the captures have proved this beyond any measure of doubt.

As all the U.S.S.R. munition factories are owned by the Soviet Government and as the system of control prevents the leakage and sale of arms and ammunition to contrabandists, the munitions must be supplied with the knowledge of the U.S.S.R. Government.

UNFRIENDLY ACT.

This action, says the Harbin Times, is tantamount to an infringement of international law and is an obvious demonstration of unfriendliness.—Reuter.

FORMER GUARD CHARGED

ARRIVES WITHOUT PASSPORT

At one time employed in the Hongkong Police Force as a guard, Mewa Singh appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court this morning on a charge of being in the Colony without a proper passport.

Prosecuting, Mr. T. Murphy, A.S.P., said the accused resigned last June from the Guards, since when nothing had been heard of him until he turned up again on the 10th of this month and asked to be re-instated. An inspection of his papers showed that he had been to Shanghai in the meantime and, upon leaving that port, was furnished with a certificate which was valid only for a journey to India via Hongkong. He had broken the journey here.

When his application for re-employment was refused and it was pointed out to him that there was another ship on the 22nd on which he could continue his trip home, Mewa Singh refused. The attitude he took up was "I am going to stay here; you can do what you like with me."

In reply to the charge, Mewa Singh said he was a sick man, and just now could not make the journey.

Mr. Murphy—I believe he is an addict to opium.

The A.S.P. remarked that the probability would be that the Government would be asked to repatriate the defendant, but in order to avoid that and at the same time to see what the man could do for himself, he would ask for a week's remand and bail.

His Worship granted the remand and fixed the bail at $50.

FROGS SOLD AS FOOD

HAWKER HAS BAIL ESTREATED

"Frogs food for man?" queried Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court to-day when told that a hawker was selling these without a licence.

Inspector McWalter, in charge of the case, expressed his conviction that they were. "They are sold within market limits," he stated.

The hawker was not in Court and his bail of $50 was estreated.

CONTRACT BRIDGE
By W. E. McKenney
There is a popular impression that one should not open the bidding in fourth position except with a very strong hand. Many experts formerly held that view, but most of them have now abandoned it in favour of lighter fourth hand bids.
In the following hand both sides were vulnerable, and according to the old theories, not one of the four hands contained a sound vulnerable opening bid.

J-8-5-2

It is interesting to note that the East hand contained values which could not accurately be measured by a table of high-card tricks. It had both major suits well under control, so if the opponents were to do any competitive bidding, it would probably have to be in the minors.
To be sure, the chance for game was remote, but it seemed probable that a partial score could be made in either spades or hearts, and the opportunity was too good to neglect.

The Bidding.
East opened with one spade after three passes. South bid one diamond and West bid two spades, proceeding cautiously until he learned the strength of his partner's hand. North raised to three diamonds and East passed to show his partner that he had opened on a comparatively weak hand. South passed and West bid three spades, which closed the contracting. The information exchanged during the bidding convinced both partners that it was unwise to try for game.

The Play.
South opened the three of diamonds on which North played the queen and declarer, in the East, won with the ace. He played a small spade to dummy's ace and returned a spade to the king in his own hand. He led the queen of hearts, which South covered and dummy won with the ace. Declarer threw the lead to North with the queen of clubs. The opponents took two rounds of clubs and the declarer was obliged to concede them a heart trick at the end. He just made his three spade contract.

COMMANDER SUTTON LOSES APPEAL.

MANSLAUGHTER SENTENCE UPHOLD BY COURT

Limassol, Oct. 15.
The appeal of Commander Sutton, of H.M.S. Resource, against the sentence of six months' imprisonment for the manslaughter of the proprietor of a native hotel here on October 5, has been dismissed.
Mustapha Faud Boy, one of the three judges dissented with the decision of his colleagues, the Chief Justice, Sir Herbert Stronge, and the Puisne Judge Mr. Serties.
Commander Sutton is appealing to the Privy Council against the rejection of his appeal, and for this purpose he is being conducted to England aboard a warship.

RE-ORGANISATION OF LEAGUE.
COMPROMISE REACHED AT LAST

Geneva, Oct. 15.
After ten days of differing, the League sub-committee reached a compromise on the German proposal regarding the reorganization of the League Secretariat, when it was agreed that no Power should have more than two nationals of higher rank in the Secretariat.
The agreement, which is to be submitted to the final meeting of the Assembly on Monday, also provides for a French Secretary-General, two assistant Secretaries-General, who will be Italian and Norwegian respectively, and three Under-Secretaries of British, German and Japanese nationality.
Economy Cut.
British pressure is regarded as being largely responsible for an economy cut of $61,531 francs effected in the League budget voted this evening by the Budget Commission, though this economy will be absorbed by unavoidable items such as 436,000 francs for the World Economic Conference.
Sir Eric Drummond, the League Secretary-General, announced that it was proposed to appoint the German Under-Secretary-General in charge of the economic financial section of the League, this being regarded as the price for German acquiescence to the prospective appointment of M. Joseph Avenol as successor to Sir Eric Drummond.

Mr. Alvares and Miss Botelho were ordered back to their car and told to drive towards Kowloon. As the engine of their car started, the headlights of another car came in sight and the last they saw was the following car being held up at pistol point.
The police have received no report of a second hold-up.
A party of detectives visited the scene of the robbery, yesterday and found 50 cents on the ground, obviously dropped by the robbers. The hole in Mr. Alvares' car is believed to have been caused by a .38 calibre bullet.
Police investigations are being pursued.

NEW TERRITORY HOLD-UP
PORTUGUESE COUPLE ROBBED

Shots were fired and a young couple threatened with a dagger in a hold-up on the Tai Po Road on Saturday. The victims were Mr. A. V. Alvares, of 6, Cameron Road, and Miss Maria Botelho, of 35, Granville Road.
A diamond ring valued at $1,000 was among the articles stolen from Miss Botelho.
The spot where the robbery occurred is a quarter of a mile from the junction of the Castle Peak Road.
Mr. Alvares' car was parked on the side of the road about 10 o'clock, when suddenly, from behind, a revolver shot rang out and two Chinese appeared. Both were armed, one carrying a revolver and the other holding a dagger.
"Hands up!" was the sharp order, rapped out in English. The robbers speaking the Puntli dialect then ordered their victims to hand over all their valuables.
The property stolen included—
One diamond ring, valued at $1,000.
One wristlet watch, $80.
One hand bag $5.
One gold watch $120.
Two dollars in Hongkong currency.
Total value $1,207.

The Late Arnold Bennett's Last Long Story "DREAM OF DESTINY"

(Copyright Strictly Reserved.)

Roland stayed at Phillibot Court a considerable time after Dr. Action Woglo had left, talking rather intimately, but vaguely and purposelessly with Mr. and Mrs. Friar. Mr. Friar's opinion of the doctor had fallen. The doctor had said that Phoebe was too weak even to stand, and let her escape from her keepers and scurried down the corridor, being overtaken only at the drawing-room door. The doctor had explained that feat by the assertion that a woman when excited could bring up immense reserves of nervous energy. To which Mr. Friar had dryly retorted that he had previously postulated the total exhaustion of Phoebe's nervous energy. When the doctor had departed Mr. Friar had remarked that the man's chief asset was his name, obviously destined for a brass plate in Wimpole Street or Harley Street, with a "Sir" in front of it. The name once heard, nobody could ever forget it. But Roland had professed a belief in the soundness of the doctor's which belief was sincere—and Mr. Friar, much disturbed by events, had bowed the head in surrender. "You may be right," Roland had decided to walk to Half Moon Street.

He wanted to think. He had been a mere spectator of the scene in the corridor; he had done nothing, said nothing. The role, as he reflected upon it, satisfied him less and less. He ought to have been and played the St. George, to have shown initiative, dominated the group, and especially Phoebe, been recognized as a strong individuality. Aha! Roland, because impossible! What upset him more than his own quiescence was Phoebe's violent remark to him: "Why did you tell all my friends to leave my dressing-room last night?" Of course she didn't mean it, did not know what she was saying; it had risen up from the sub-conscious. Ah! but it came from the sub-conscious, it must have expressed a genuine thought, a thought so deep that she herself had no suspicion of its existence. He had been entirely right to clear her dressing-room. Curious that neither the parents nor the doctor had uttered a single word of comment on her angry remark to him! Very curious! Her heart was hostile to him. Her heart was hostile to him. Her heart—he could not bear the idea. As he walked along Knightsbridge and Piccadilly in the warm light evening, he simply could not bear it. Naturally, having an inquiring mind, he asked himself: "Am I in love with her? Am I really actually in love for the first time in my life?" Not it was not and could not be that. He liked her. His feeling for her was brotherly. She had gifts. She had intelligence. She had the native of what perhaps was genius. He admired her. But love? No. He did not know what love was. He was sure, however, that he knew what love was not. His dream about her jumped up at intervals and made as if to assault him. But he easily beat it off. The dream was ridiculous, a theme for the awed chatter of the superstitious. Her heart was hostile to him. He had tried to help her; he had been a very friendly brother to her. And, deep down, she detested him.

Arrived at his home, he saw his dress-clothes laid out in his bedroom according to command, for he had accepted an invitation to dinner. He could not tolerate the sight of the clothes and the menace of a social evening. Impulsively he went to the semi-public telephone in the hall, and by a deceitful and unconvincing prevarication excused himself, thus at the last moment, from attending the dinner. He was free! He would dine at his club, and lose himself in cynical male gossip.

Now the theatre did not lie on the way to the club. He made a detour of a third of a mile in order to pass by the front of it. Why? He was a morbid fool. Two long queues of people were filing into the pit and the gallery entrances. An electric sign glittered large on the face of the theatre: "The Tenement Girl, Phoebe Friar." He crossed the road to inspect the bill. A strip bearing the words "Rosie Draper" had been pasted over the name of the sick woman. Suddenly the electric sign died out. He re-crossed the street. He saw two workmen high up on the facade. Then the words "The Tenement Girl" reappeared, but the name of "Phoebe Friar" did not, though it could still be clearly read in the early dusk. The phenomenon terribly depressed him. But he thought: "I am an idiot. They couldn't possibly keep her name burning." Still, it did seem to the idiot in him that Phoebe had been annihilated. The club, always full for lunch, was at night the final resource of a few members, mainly bachelors. He glanced in at the dining-room and saw fewer members than usual, and not one with whom he cared to dine. And now he felt a horror of general conversation. He sat down at a small table and ate by himself. Then, moody and acutely dejected, he went home. He took a taxi because he had an intense desire to be alone, to sink completely into solitary gloom, as quickly as possible.

To Roland, the night seemed to grow warmer. He took off jacket and waistcoat, watched himself in a crimson silk dressing-gown, once the pride of an eccentric young shop assistant in Jermyn Street (but it was too thin to wear in winter), and arranged his body at length in the easiest chair in his sitting-room, and lit a pipe. He would have read; a book might have diverted him; but he could not persuade his mind to the concentration necessary for reading. He preferred to luxuriate in misery. He was magnificently and (as one layer of his brain told him) causelessly miserable. He was too miserable to switch on the electric light, and the room darkened. When his pipe went out, sulking under neglect, he was too miserable to give it a second chance; he merely chewed the tip of its stem. He was ecstatic in melancholy. Then his man invaded the sitting-room. "Mr. Thomasson to see you, sir. He says urgent. But I have not said that you are at home."

"Oh damn!" Roland murmured. "Turn the light on, will you please? Er—yes, of course I will see him. Bring him up."

The man turned on the light and went downstairs, leaving the door ajar. Roland sprang forward, in the chair, and seized a book from the table; and, with time to spare, he revived his pipe. Tommy, entering, saw a friend sprawling in an easy chair, puffing at a pipe, and apparently absorbed in the perusal of a literary work of terrific interest,—so absorbed indeed that for an instant he seemed to be unaware of the presence of a visitor.

Roland did not leave his chair; but he dropped the book on to his knees, and, perceiving a strange, and look on Tommy's handsome face, he at once forced himself into a mood of gaiety.

"Hello!" he exclaimed, still lounging. "What about that Division?"

"Division be damned!" said Tommy. "You appear to be expecting a woman to slip in."

"I never expect a woman to do anything. I always expect her not to do it. Safest."

"Where did you put up that dressing-gown?"

"I can't remember. Had it years. But if you like I'll crick my neck and examine the label inside the back of its neck."

"I thought you were dining out to-night."

UNFINISHED

Arnold Bennett's last long story was left unfinished, but this does not spoil its worth or readable quality, but rather adds a mystery value which will be found very intriguing.

A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.

This is a condition (or disease) to which many people are given but few really understand. It is simply weakness—a break down as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the system. No man or woman may be fit to carry on his or her duties, if his or her system is broken down. The more prominent being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weakness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is essential to such a state is caused by a lack of vitality, strength and energy to throw off these morbid feelings, and as night succeeds the day this may be more certainly secured by a course of THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY, THERAPION No. 3. MONKS LEAD DOGS TO PLACE OF SAFETY.
 Geneva, Sept. 4.
 The famous St. Bernard Hospice was threatened with destruction by fire yesterday. The fire broke out in buildings adjoining the main block and the monks promptly set to work to prevent it spreading. After several hours of strenuous efforts the fire was mastered.

YOUR CHILDREN.

Don't Let Sonny Become Over-excited.

Nerves are telegraph wires. They possess automatic shut-offs. When the brain becomes fogged or excited the switch to the stomach closes and that station ceases work.

This is why so many adults and children otherwise normally healthy suddenly develop digestive upsets without any warning or apparent reason.

Excitement consists of many things. Happiness, sorrow, anger, fear, or any complex suddenly accentuated will almost certainly hit at the stomach, especially if the sufferer happens to be of a sensitive, high-strung nature.

Several times this summer I have observed children who were supposed to have a complaint due to heat, go down with fever, purging and vomiting after some form of unusual excitement. It did not occur to their mothers that nerve strain may have been the principal cause. But there was not much question in my mind that it was to blame.

There is this to be said about a party or a picnic:

Through sheer anticipation a child becomes taut. He thinks about it beforehand, then there is the actual preparation and the trip.

Usually his emotional state keeps up through the day, often accompanied by physical over-exertion.

All Parties Aren't Fun.

We have a habit of thinking that anything in the nature of a holiday or celebration delights a child. For the most part it does, too. But

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

FOR THE SWEET COURSE.

Banana and Tangerine Sponge Mould.

Required: 1 pint tangerine jelly, one large or two small bananas, one small tin of sliced apricots or peaches, and two sponge cakes.

Open the tin of fruit and strain off the juice into a saucepan: make up the balance with water enough for the jelly according to directions. When the jelly is dissolved put in half the tinned fruit, the banana cut into slices, and the sponge cakes crumbled up. Mix well, pour into wetted moulds. This tastes very nice plain or served with clotted cream together with the remainder of the fruit. Raspberry Souffle.

Stew 1lb. of raspberries in a very little water till tender, drain off the juice and mash the fruit. Put the yolks of two eggs in the top of a double boiler, the fruit puree and sugar to taste, and whisk them over boiling water until thick and creamy. Take off and, continue whisking till cool, then stir in half a gill of whipped cream and quarter of an ounce of gelatine dissolved in a little of the fruit juice; fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and serve in individual souffle dishes.

Greengage Charlotte.

Cut some thin fingers of bread, dip them in oiled butter and arrange round the sides and bottom of a pudding basin. Wash 1lb. greengages, put them in layers in the basin with sugar and some thin shreds of almonds in between. Cover with a layer of fingers dipped in oiled butter and bake in a moderate oven for three-quarters of an hour. Turn out and serve with custard or cream.

This suit, fashioned from one of the new woollen fabrics, has a brief, double-breasted jacket adorned with four large buttons. With the ensemble black suede pumps, with a puddle of black patent leather that gives a buckled effect, are worn. The elastic gore, which holds it in place, is concealed. A cockeyed beret, pull-on gloves, and a polka dot scarf keep up the debonaire spirit of the costume.

Extreme décollete frocks are no longer good except for very formal wear. This charming dinner dress by Pansy has the back veiled by a shaded green lace yoke.

it depends very much on what goes with it.

A little girl recently was invited to a lovely party where all the other children were strangers. She could not protest against going because she saw how delighted everyone else was about it. They all kept talking and talking about what she must wear and the important children she would meet.

She was coached about things to do and not to do. Naturally shy and unadjusted, it was hard for her to meet even one strange little girl and make up with her.

Being thrown suddenly into the midst of two dozen was torture. Yet she smiled and tried to be friendly and put up the appearance of having a good time.

The automatic shut-off clicked. Her stomach was not receiving.

But beautiful refreshments were served and although she was not hungry she was urged to eat this and that, and she did.

Home—just in time. Bed, fever, throwing everything off she had eaten. Doctor! "Summer complaint." Which was partly true, as heat never helps.

This was fear, or a complex at work. Happiness emotionally overdone will do the same thing. Any kind of excitement.

The crux of it all is that at the very time children should not overeat or eat at all, they do. Any type of celebration is inevitably accompanied by unusual or rich food.

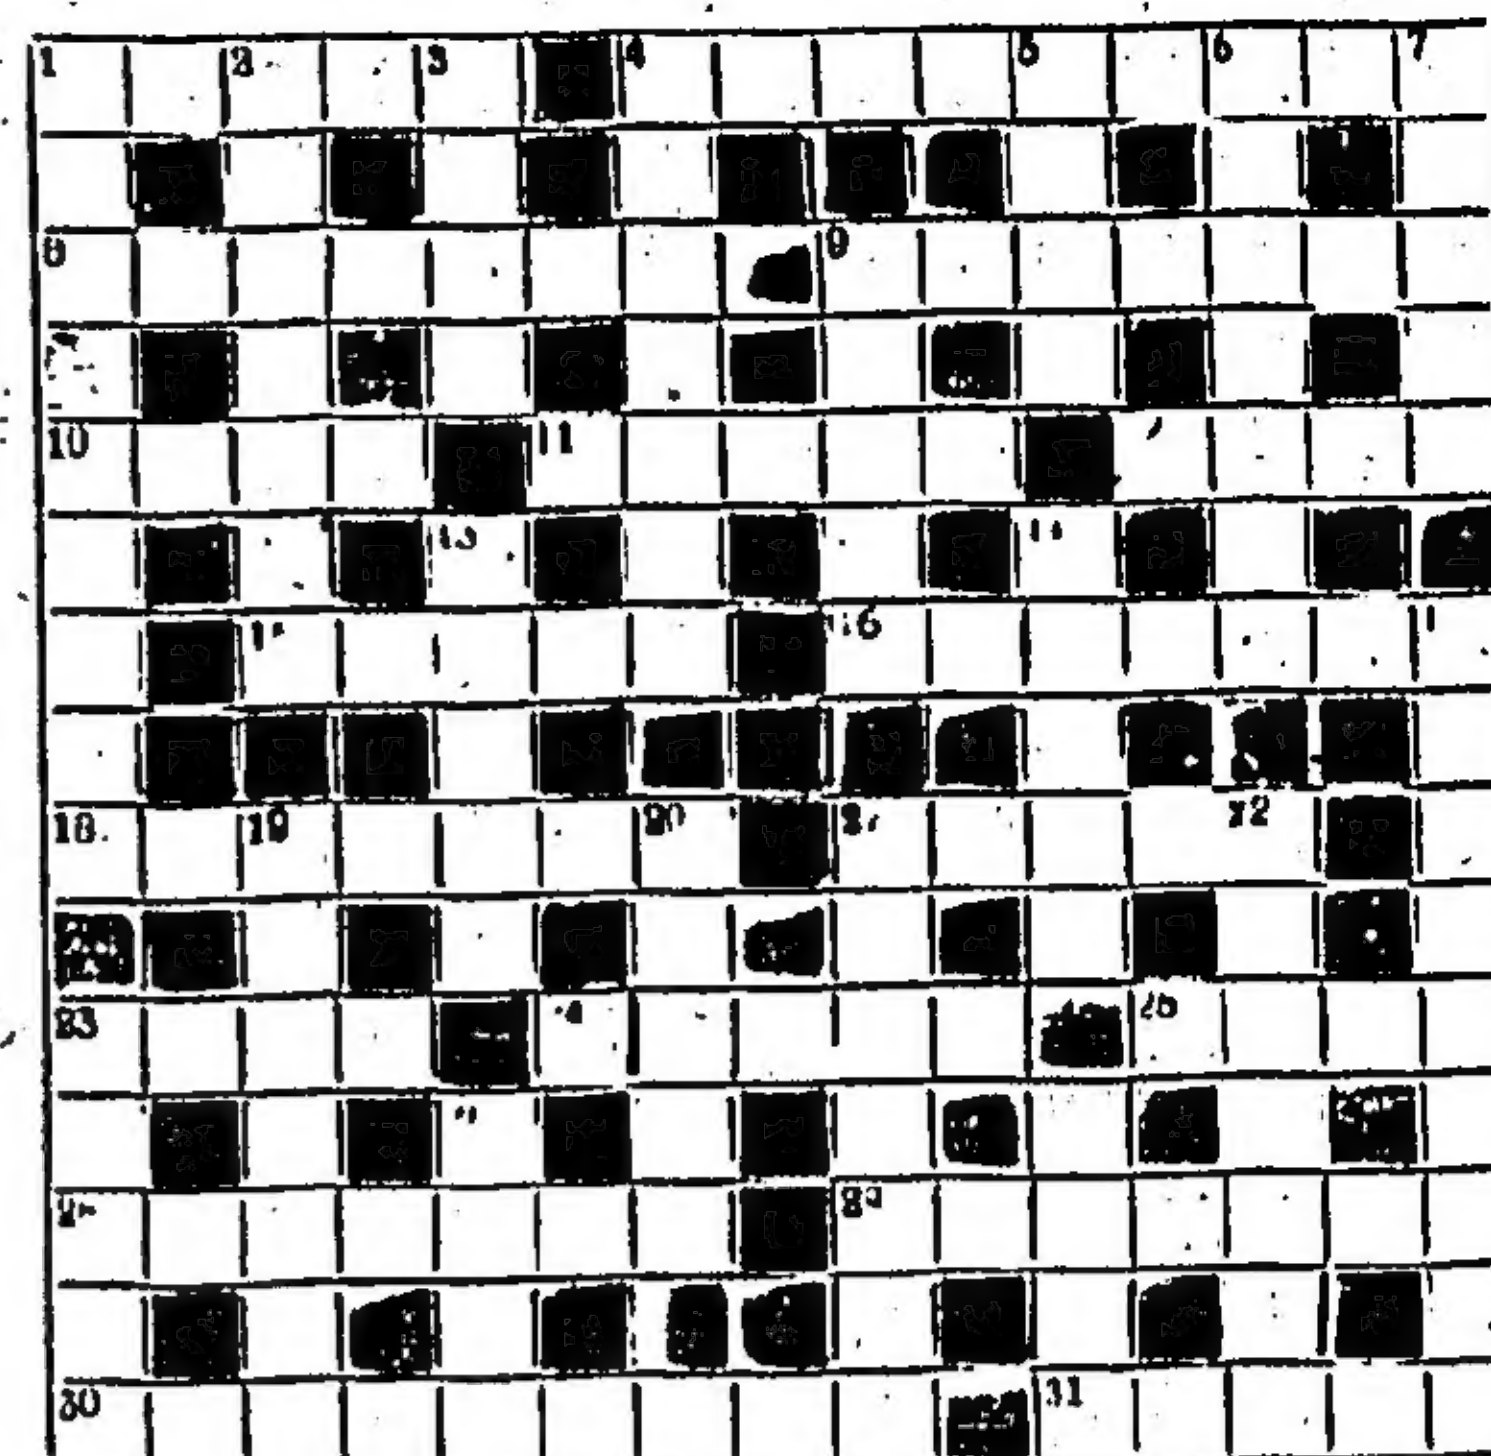

A nervous child is fortunate if he lives a quiet uneventful life, especially during the hot months.

MASS PRODUCTION

The disequilibrium that has arisen between producers of food and raw materials and producers of manufactured goods and merchants, a portent in modern industrial conditions, is a matter to which little notice has been given. Professor H. J. Fleure, in his presidential address to the Section of Geography of the British Association, has drawn attention to this disequilibrium, and attributes it, in part at least, to various types of society the world over attempting to graft on their ancient heritage the new scheme of mass production. Professor Fleure sees in the development of conditions, whether intentionally or not, how the peoples of the world, touched by the idea of mass production, are jostling one another as never before, and various types of society have become a standing danger to others. The old-time plan of Adam Smith for specialization between individuals and between parts of a nation has become a plan for the specialization of nations, and the laissez faire doctrine which has followed it has been an idea that all would be for the best if economic rivalry were unbridled and the best were allowed to win freely. In the light of conditions that have arisen this conception has to be re-examined.

In pursuit of his argument Professor Fleure traces the history of traditionalism in an economic sense. He shows the trends of both rural and urban life in various nations. He sees a conflict under-lying the present difficulties of the world, and nowhere is it so acute as in France and Germany. There is, as well, the spread of large scale industrialism in the United States and Japan and the prospect of its emergence elsewhere. He sees nearly half of mankind in the monsoon lands of Asia, apart from Japan, being shaken out of its traditional schemes by contact with the West. He sees nationalist ideas germinating in various ways alongside of schemes of industrial development that borrow from the West to such an extent as to be a danger to indigenous society. Professor Fleure admits there has been a difficult phase of the world's life reached. Traditionalism, he says, is challenged everywhere in economic, social and religious life as never before. The social group is inevitably part of a great future whole, and yet is being forced to think more of its roots in its own soil. Each group has its problems and needs the help of others.

England has her population problem, France her need to safeguard her peasant tradition, Germany her need to develop her schemes of welfare planning, and so on. But the development of each without domination by any is a very difficult idea to work out, and in our attempts we are all too likely to try to crystallize out some condition of status quo, forgetting that life has change as one of its basic characteristics. The study of men and their environments that we geographers pursue is necessarily always relative to a particular time, and must always be looked at in the broad frame of the life of mankind as a whole.

Franco-German Tension.

The Four-Power Conference recommended by Great Britain as offering prospects of bringing Germany back into the disarmament fold will do no good unless there is a marked change of spirit. Germany is reluctant to enter upon it at all and makes conditions. The Nationalist forces in France are stirring up feelings of bitterness. At the moment, there is only one encouraging feature in the situation. M. Herriot is placatory and he can rely upon the support of the powerful Socialist group even while he has refused to accept them as his allies in the Chamber. The Socialist attitude is fully explained by M. Leon Blum in his newspaper, Le Populaire. His argument is that French interests would be furthered by an acceptance of the German demand for legal equality of armaments; that France should see the justice of General von Schleicher's position that unless the signatories of the Treaty of Versailles carry out their own armaments, Germany will be justified in disregarding the treaty and rearming; and that such a French policy is the more advisable because of the present strength of German Nationalists and Hitlerites. This is precisely the opposite of the French Nationalists' reasoning. They have maintained that General von Schleicher's threat is a conclusive argument against any reduction of French forces, and should bar any admission of legal equality. M. Blum's point is that this plays directly into the hands of the German Nationalists and that the best way of weakening them is to make a success of the Geneva Disarmament Conference. Then they would be pledged to hold Germany's armaments at the levels which the conference fixed and would no longer be able to charge "breach of contract" because France and her allies refuse to disarm in accordance with the pledge of the Treaty of Versailles. The fulfilment by Germany of her undertakings would be insured by the international inspection for which the disarmament treaty would provide. If, on the other hand, the conference should fail, M. Blum says, the secret armaments—which part of the French press alleges Germany to possess—would remain more secret and thus more vaguely threatening. M. Blum's critics charge him with lack of logic, but they have a good deal of difficulty in showing the exact nature of the lack. "What ruins M. Blum's thesis," says M.

Pierre Bernus in Journal des Debats, "is that it is based upon an initial fiction—the fiction that the Reich will execute its contractual obligations." The question of German good faith, however, has been raised to oppose every French concession since the armistice, and few would now allege that any one of these concessions was unwise and that the anticipated bad faith materialized. Moreover, it must be remembered that the military clauses of the Treaty of Versailles were imposed by force, and Germany has never considered them morally binding. Evasions, therefore, have not seemed to her immoral. Evasions of a treaty freely entered into would be an entirely different matter.

"Thanks, lady! I thought you looked like a pretty good egg."

WHY CLIMB MOUNT EVEREST?

By SIR FRANCIS YOUNGHUSBAND

THE chance for another attempt on Everest has come at last.

We have sought it for the last eight years, ever since the failure of the third expedition—"we" being the Everest Committee of the Royal Geographical Society and the Alpine Club, formed in 1920 for sending expeditions to climb Mount Everest.

We knew the mountain could be climbed. The expeditions had proved that. Whether Mallory and Irvine had succeeded or not in reaching the summit before they died, at any rate Norton and Somervell had reached the level of 28,000 feet, and had seen that there was no physical obstacle in the remaining thousand feet to prevent their reaching the summit.

The Atmosphere.

Besides the cold and the fearful winds and the snow, the only real difficulty is the thinness of the atmosphere at those high altitudes. There is not enough oxygen in the air. Men have to puff and pant to get in a sufficiency of oxygen to meet their bodily needs. Seven, eight, nine breaths between each step they have to take at the 20,000 feet level.

And, for all we knew till the last expedition, this might have been a complete bar to the summit ever being reached. But that expedition did demonstrate this all-important fact, that men can acclimatise themselves to the highest levels.

The present expedition will start with the great advantage of that knowledge. They will know that the thing can be done. Previous expeditions could only hope it. But they will not know who can do it. That will still remain in doubt.

Spent to the Last Gas.

Some men acclimatise better than others. Odell acclimatized very slowly. He was almost set aside on that account. But eventually he was able to go twice to 27,000 feet. And the new expedition will have to remember this. Also they will be able to profit by the experience of those very gallant Bavarian climbers on Kangchenjunga.

But though it is certain that man will some day reach the summit, it is equally certain that only men of the finest physical fitness, of the steadiest nerve, and of the firmest will can accomplish the feat. And only then after running risks from avalanches and from slips on the shaly sides of the final ridge, and after enduring untold hardships from biting blizzards, from driving snow, and from arctic cold.

Climbing Everest is the severest possible strain upon man, and he will only reach the summit spent to the last gasp.

Spectators' Part.

But what a thrilling drama in real life is the whole struggle with Everest. Act III. ended with Mallory and Irvine last seen "going strong for the top," but never heard of again. What will Act IV. disclose?

Will it bring a message from Mallory like the diaries found on Scott and Amundsen? And will it finish gloriously with the mountain?

tain at last beneath the foot of man? Or is he to be once more thrown back, and shall we have to wait for still another Act before the drama is completed?

The chief actors in it have to make the drama as they go along. But we spectators also have to play our part. What is it to be?

Are we to look on with cold indifference or with breathless interest? If the former we shall do much to take the heart out of the heartiest climber, as actors find who have to perform before an indifferent audience. If the latter we may put into the summit-climber at the crucial moment that little added something which will just carry him up the last foot to the top. Is it worth while? That is in fact what we have to make up our minds about. The climbers evidently think that it is, or they would not be risking their lives and going through all these hardships to do it.

But do we spectators also think it worth while? Not all of us. Many think it a sheer waste of life, energy and money.

There are always those who prefer the safe flat to the risky heights. There are always those who are unable to appreciate the sacrifices and endurance required for the highest excellence on any line. Most of de Saussure's contemporaries were unable to appreciate the worthwhileness of his efforts to reach the summit of Mont Blanc. Yet he, like all pioneers of high excellence, showed the way for thousands to follow after.

Turning the Scale.

The whole standard of climbing was raised by him, and to the vast enjoyment of the multitude, as can be measured in hard cash by the hotelkeepers and railway companies of Switzerland to-day.

So will it be, but on a greater scale, with the Everest climbers. They are pioneers for that higher order of enjoyment which alone will satisfy the austere, harder, more enterprising race which is now being brought forth.

Let, then, an increasing number of their fellow-countrymen show the actors in this mighty drama that they do appreciate the tremendous worthwhileness of the enterprise. Let us not sit listlessly back in our seats while the drama unfolds. But, as the climbers glance back over their shoulders, let them see us on the tiptoe of expectation eagerly following their progress.

For that sight may just give the extra grain of spirit to them which will turn the scale on the side of success.

TAX ME—
TAX MY GOLDFISH

(By Edward Kelly, Dentist.)

We've decided to come to the aid of this Colony.

The Government needs money for the Shing Mun scheme, and they seem to be under the impression that there's no source of revenue left except an income tax. This is not strictly true. We could suggest lots and lots of ways we could be taxed. There's goldfish, for instance. Licences for goldfish.

Any found wandering about the streets without a collar and unmuzzled to be taken to the Goldfish Home, and put into the loath chamber at the pleasure of H. E. the O.A.G. Then there's another thing. At present we have to pay Entertainment Tax. Couldn't it be arranged that there should be a Tax on the Entertainment Tax?

Might as well do the thing properly. A tax of ten per cent on all Entertainment Tax paid, so that if you pay $20 a year Entertainment Tax, all you have to do is pay $2 Tax Tax.

Then there's cats. A dog pays $5 for a licence to be a dog for one year. Nobody seems to have thought of Cat Licences. Two bucks for lady cats, and $5 for tom-cats.

Each cat should be allotted a certain tilage or roofing, with additional fee charge for extra area above the standard allotment as fixed by the Board.

Tom-cats to be grouped in zones. Any tom-cat found out of his zone to be fined $50, and for a second offence $100, and have his milk saucer broken. A third conviction will mean the cancellation of his licence, and he will then no longer be a cat within the meaning of the act.

This will mean that an habitual offender deprived of his licence may be impounded for (a) Littering in a public place. (b) Vagrancy. (c) Being a suspected person. (d) Offensive behaviour. (e) Disturbing the peace. (f) Being (Continued on Page 9.)

THE ORIGIN OF FAIRIES

CANON DIPS INTO HISTORY

"Were fairies an actual race of men?" was the question asked by Canon J. A. MacCulloch, of Bridge of Allan, at the meeting of the British Association at York. He himself inclined to the theory that an animistic belief in a race of supernatural original had given the impetus to the widespread tradition of fairies.

The belief in fairies perhaps came in with the Saxons. It was possible that ghosts associated with burial mounds assumed less ghostly and more elfin form.

"We note," the Canon proceeded, "that fairies and ghosts are distinct groups have curious similarities. Both are voracious, steal children, kill by a mysterious stroke, are only active in the dark or at certain seasons, and are kept off by similar rites of riddance. Both dwell underground."

The origin of fairies, in an actual race of men had been advocated. The Picta or Neolithic men could not have been them, for they were tall.

"Can fairies or the dwarfs of folk lore be traced to a small or even a pigmy race of men?" asked the Canon. "Traditions of pigmy races exist from Homer's time. Some refer to African pigmies known to Egyptians; others were connected with India in classical story, or are represented on early British sculpture."

Legends of Tiny Dwarfs.

"In Africa, where actual pigmies exist, there are legends of tiny dwarfs connected with them or with an aboriginal race."

"Was a pigmy race once widespread? In the Neolithic Age in Europe groups of pigmies seem to have lived side by side with their taller neighbours. If such a race once existed widely in Europe, and if additional dwarfs, and to some extent, fairies, are derived from memories of an actual race, we might regard pigmies as a source of the traditions, just as the African little people are derived from earlier pigmies or bush men."

Reviewing the evidence as a whole, the Canon concluded that while some traits of fairies suggested an earlier race of men, others were found to be purely animistic in origin.

"CONGORILLA"

FINE FILM AT THE KING'S

First screenings of "Congorilla" during the week-end at the King's Theatre have drawn favourable comments from the critics. The exciting "encounters" between man and beast, or between one denizen of the jungle and another, without which previous animal productions have not been complete, are conspicuously absent from the picture, which bears the mark of authenticity throughout, and can be accepted as a sober record of life in the African jungle. The animal order unique to the African jungle is all shown in its natural surroundings, and interesting details regarding its mode of being are clearly depicted with the assistance of the telescopic lens.

One of the most notable features of the production is that connected with the life of the pygmies, having their habitat in the Congo forests. Previous reports of the existence of this strange people which have generally elicited scepticism are here proved to be no figment of the imagination. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson have achieved one of the principal objects of their expedition when they found this race and lived with them as shown for a considerable time.

Sound accompaniment and a running patter by Mr. Johnson, also recorded in the picture, help towards the understanding of the hazardous nature of the trek across the continent and to a just appreciation of its value.

POOR DISPLAY BY KOWLOON

St. Joseph's Much Better Team

(By "Wanderer.")

Kowloon 0 St. Joseph's 2 (Leonard, Souza)

Kowloon, generally expected to beat St. Joseph's were never in danger of winning. They appeared to surrender all ambitions from the moment Leonard opened the scoring for St. Joseph's and played in a lack-lustre fashion that would have presented the points to their opponents, even had they not deserved them.

St. Joseph's, however, gave the impression of being quite a sound team. The defence was solid, resourceful and determined, their position was excellent and the haphazard forays of Kowloon quickly broke down. Add to this a lively forward line which kept the ball on the move, gave the wingers plenty of work and had an always threatening leader of attack, and you have St. Joseph's.

A DISJOINTED LOT.

Kowloon at no time had the measure of their opponents and at no time looked likely to get it. Eleven players without a single connecting link, a thoroughly disjointed lot. No method, no initiative and, worst of all, no spirit.

All through the first half, one felt the high wind against them was discouraging and that a marked change must result from the turn-over. If anything, until the last ten minutes their display in the second half was even more disappointing than in the first.

Greatest offenders were the forwards. The defence might have played its part had there been a sign of life in the attack; it produced two sparks, one in the first five minutes, and one in the last ten, when McKelvie assumed the centre-half position; for the rest it was dead. Hill was inept and his weakness soon blanketed Campbell out of the picture. Phillips and Blake, on the left, appeared to labour in the belief that they were on the field purely for their joint amusement. Now and again both did some clever tricks, seldom did these signs of artistry contribute towards the work of the team. Nelems waited in vain for a respectable pass from either side. He must have wondered what he was doing, standing well-placed waiting for the ball to come through only to witness an inexplicable, wild, useless pass to a colleague well covered.

KOWLOON'S PROBLEM.

Kowloon will have to go into their team problem very thoroughly. McKelvie will never make a back. The reputation of a full back is built, to a large extent, upon bold interceptions. No more need be said. When he resumed his proper position, the Kowloon machine was temporarily galvanised into some sort of life and Marquis did well to prevent a goal. The left wing is too immature for effective football.

St. Joseph's were well served in all departments. I cannot imagine any player looking less a footballer than Costa at centre-half, but his appearance is highly acceptable. He employed his height to break up many forward movements with delightful head work and his feeding of the wings was masterly. On either side of him were determined players, effective in their tackling and passing and behind were backs who seldom placed a foot wrong.

Leonard and B. Gossano were outstanding in the attack, the latter playing an orthodox type of game which upset Kowloon's defensive tactics repeatedly.

Souza scored St. Joseph's second goal, presented with a slice which he all but missed. The ball struck the underside of the cross-bar from about eight-feet range.

LINCOLNS LUCKY

GREAT RECOVERY BY CHINESE

Lincoln 3 (Baldry, Higgins, Kirkham)

Chinese Athletic 2 (Lu Tok-ki, Ho Han-king)

The Chinese Athletic staged a brilliant recovery just at a time they appeared thoroughly beaten against the Lincolns yesterday, and within a few minutes had cut down the soldiers' lead of three goals to one. When the final whistle blew they were still fiercely attacking and the Lincolns were lucky to escape with both points.

SUCCESSFUL TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

M.C.L. Funds Benefit From Mixed Doubles Event.

U.S.R.C. PAIR WIN.

Twenty-seven couples took part in the successful mixed doubles tennis tournament arranged by the Ladies Recreation Club on Saturday on behalf of the Ministering Children's League.

The tournament was divided into three sections, the leaders of each meeting in the final. Captain Cannon and Mrs. Lisaman, leaders of the Green section, first defeated G. A. White and Miss Griffiths who topped the Blue division 3-2, and afterwards overcame Mr. Gordon and Miss Thomas, who led the red section 4 games to 1, to win the tournament with a total of 36 games. White and Miss Griffiths were runners-up.

Not only were the entries well up to expectations, but a large crowd gathered at the club to witness the matches, and the effort resulted in $170 being added to M.C.L. funds. Of this $20 were raised from an auction of tea cakes.

Mrs. Hancock's Speech.

At the conclusion, Mrs. Hancock presented the prizes, and before doing so, addressing the gathering, she said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen, although no exponent of the game of lawn tennis, I have always been very much interested in it, and particularly in the efforts to distribute the prizes this afternoon to the lucky winners of this tournament, which has been arranged under the auspices of this club in aid of the M.C.L."

"I think you will agree with me, that it has been a great success. Both from the point of view of the players, and the spectators, and especially financially, as I am informed that the sum of $150 will be handed over to the committee of the M.C.L. as a result of to-day's play."

"This tournament, like all similar events, entails a good deal of work and organisation, which usually falls on the shoulders of one individual, and in this case Mrs. Matheson is the lady who have to thank especially for all the hard work she has done on our behalf. Before distributing the prizes I should also like to thank the Outdoor Sports Co. and Messrs. Sykes & Co. for kindly presenting all the balls. The B.A.T. Co. for cigarettes given as 1st and 2nd prizes for the men and all those ladies who have so kindly assisted in providing the tea, and also the Committee of this club for the arrangements made."

"There was a good response on the part of the players and I think we all had a most enjoyable afternoon."

The following were the results of the various sections:

Green.

1. Captain Cannon and Mrs. Lisaman 29; 2. Mr. Monaghan and Mrs. Stephen 25; 3. Mr. Williams and Mrs. Stafford-Smith 20; 4. Mr. S. Hill and Mrs. R. M. Wood 17; 5. Mr. Johnson and Miss Stevenson 16; 6. Mr. Stafford-Smith and Mrs. Fakin 16; 7. Commr. Skryme and Miss Hallifax 15; 8. Captain Rose and Miss Curtin 13; 9. Mr. Prophet and Miss Knill.

Red.

1. Mr. Gordon and Miss Thomas 28; 2. Mr. and Mrs. Martin 25; 3. Mr. Gamble and Miss Orm 24; 4. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McBride 20; 5. Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins 19; 6. Mr. Salt and Miss E. Butterfield 17; 7. Mr. and Mrs. Turner 17; 8. Mr. McKay and Miss Weatland 16; 9. Mr. Moss and Mrs. B. Bird 14.

Blue.

1. Mr. White and Miss Griffiths 26; 2. Mr. Taylor and Mrs. Mackie 25; 3. Mr. de Silva and Mrs. Metello 24; 4. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McBride 20; 5. Mr. and Mrs. Wiggins 19; 6. Mr. Salt and Miss E. Butterfield 17; 7. Mr. and Mrs. Turner 17; 8. Mr. McKay and Miss Weatland 16; 9. Mr. Moss and Mrs. B. Bird 14.

When merely pantomining and keeping his lips closed, Buster Kenton puts across one of the funniest shows of his long career of comedy production in "The Passionate Plumber" which is the current attraction at the Palace Theatre. There are several uproariously funny sequences in the picture, but "Schnozzle" Durante is far too noisy, and Polly Moran too much obscured. It is Kenton's film from start to finish and on the whole is one of the best he has yet given us.

In taking a three-nil lead the Lincolns played splendid football, countering the neat work of the Chinese with a progressive type of football which rendered them dangerous whenever they were on the attack. The manner in which opportunities were seized presented an additional anxiety to the Athletic defence, and if the Lincolns were somewhat flustered in building up a three goals advantage, it cannot be said they did not thoroughly deserve each point.

When Kirkham netted the third goal, it appeared that the Chinese were definitely bombing up, but a series of raids, coming in in Lu Tok-ki scoring gave them fresh impetus, and after Ho Han-king had further reduced the deficit they fairly monopolised the exchanges.

On the run of the play a draw would have been a fair result.

MAMAK HOCKEY.

FORWARDS IN THEIR ELEMENT

A NEW RECORD SCORE

GERMANS CONCEDE ANOTHER EIGHT

(By "Bully-Off").

By defeating the Kowloon Indian Tennis Club by 10 goals to nil on Saturday the H.K. and S. Battery R.A. set up a new record in goal-scoring in the Mamak Tournament. The previous record was jointly shared by St. Andrews, and the Radio, both teams registering eight goals against the R.E.s and the German Club respectively.

The Battery were far superior to their opponents and completely outclassed them. They attacked six times before the interval and during the second half added another four.

SIX 2nd HALF GOALS.

The Incognitos maintained their unbeaten record when they defeated the German Club on Saturday in a competition game to the tune of eight goals to one, at Caroline Hill. At first sight the score would appear to indicate a very one-sided game, but this was not the case for the Club offered not a little resistance. During the first half they defended well and the teams changed ends with the score at two-nil in favour of the Incognitos. Barron was responsible for the scoring. The Incognitos were full value for the six goals they netted during the latter half, and those who found the net were B. G. Kodd (2), E. V. Reed (2) and P. Souza. Muller replied with the only goal for the losers.

FRIENDLY GAMES.

Argylls Go Under. The Argylls were entertained at King's Park on Saturday by the C.M.C.A., and after an evenly contested game were defeated by two goals to nil. The Civilians showed better combination and deserved their win. In the opening half Fowler opened the account for the "Y" following a fine pass sent from Selk and Wilson added the second goal after the interval from a pass from the left by Andrews. On a number of occasions the Argylls came near to scoring, one instance being when Ellick struck the post. In the opening exchanges of the second half Brown scored but the goal was disallowed on account of off-side play.

ST. ANDREW'S LADIES LOSE.

The R.A.S.C. were opposed to St. Andrew's Ladies on the U.R.S.C. ground on Saturday and won by five goals to one. Tippet (2), Marshall (2) and O'Connor netted for the Army men and M. Woolley replied for the Ladies.

MULE CORPS BEATS BORDERERS.

The meeting between the "A" Company South Wales Borderers and the Hongkong Mule Corps on the Marina Ground on Saturday was productive of some interesting hockey, and as the score, a single goal victory for the Corps, indicates, play was of an even nature.

The Borderers had most of the play during the first half and although off-side tactics spoiled many good attacks they were unlucky not to have scored on at least one occasion. The Indians put up a strong defence and their keeper did some remarkably good work. After the interval Saklat Singh changed from back to inside left and this greatly improved the play of the forward line. Early in this half the Borderers goalkeeper kicked the ball into his own net but luckily for them the goal was disallowed. Play continued to be even until about ten minutes from the final whistle, when Saklat Singh centred after a brilliant run on the left for Capt. Eyo to net the only goal scored.

The League Table up to and including Saturday is as follows:—

STAGGERING DEFEAT OF THE CLUB

PROBLEMS FACING KOWLOON: NAVY RECEIVE A SURPRISE

DAY OF TALL SCORING IN ALL THREE DIVISIONS

A staggering defeat of the Club by the Borderers, an unexpected reverse by Kowloon at the hands of St. Joseph's, and the triumph of the Police over the Navy were some of the features of Saturday's local soccer.

Others included some high scoring, when certain games saw nine, eight and seven goals registered, and the achievement of the Athletic in beating South China in the second Division.

The local "derby" between the Kowloon and Club second strings resulted in an easy win for the mainlanders.

METAMORPHOSIS OF THE CLUB

PITIFUL DISPLAY AGAINST S.W.B.

(By "Veritas").

S.W. Borderers	7
(Jones 4, Davis 2, Pallister)
Club	1
(M. Ralston).

Although I am all for this "glorious uncertainty" associated with all sports, the uncertainty of form displayed by football teams is not so glorious.

Thus the Hongkong Club, impressively efficient as a unit and as individuals one week, go down to South Wales on Saturday and give as wretched a display as one could possibly conceive. Never have I seen a team quite so outclassed as were the Club by the South Wales Borderers, and the fact that the soldiers won by the handsome margin of 7-1 is but a rough indication of the superiority they enjoyed.

"SHOCK" GOALS.

Granted the Club were without Howe, which meant a slight disorganisation of the forward line; but this was no excuse for the positive ineptitude of the defence, who, from Skinner at centre-half, to Rodgers in goal, with Strange at intervals providing an exception, were out-paced, out-manoeuvred and left quite helpless. This metamorphosis of the Club was hard to appreciate coming as it did when there could be little to suggest such inferiority before the game started.

The Borderers early "shock" goals obviously upset the equilibrium of the Club. Rodgers, although well and truly beaten by six of the goals, did give up as unequal the struggle with the soldiers left wing after the first ten minutes, and as the game progressed, became slower and less effective. Rodgers, although well and truly beaten by six of the goals, did give up as unequal the struggle with the soldiers left wing after the first ten minutes, and as the game progressed, became slower and less effective.

Strange alone remained an indomitable spirit, tackling with customary verve and completely subduing his right wing opponents. Unfortunately his was a lone battle.

A PRETTY DANCE.

In partnership with J. Duncan, he led Rodgers and Co., a pretty dance and it was on this side of the field that all the Club danger lay. The Borderers' vaniers, in opposition to those of the Club, enjoyed the fullest support of the intermediates, and most of the goals were initiated by them. Mullane, Morrison and Johnson, the last lines of defence, with their work made easier by the spilling and constructive efforts of the half backs could afford to take things easy and only on rare occasion appeared likely to breakdown under pressure.

The result of the game was known within the first ten minutes, when the Borderers found themselves five goals up. They should have doubled this by half time, but as it happened failed to add another.

CLUB SCORE.

The second half started off like the first, with Davis getting through in the first three minutes, but later the Club set up some spasmodic raids, one of which proved successful. Strange placed a free kick to Duncan on the right wing who transferred neatly

ARSENAL AND CHELSEA WIN AWAY

KOWLOON DEFEAT HONGKONG

Aitkenhead Shield Retained

SEASON CLOSES

The Aitkenhead Shield Competition, which marks the end of the Lawn Bowls season in Hongkong, took place on the Kowloon Bowling Green Club grounds on Saturday afternoon, Kowloon beating Hongkong for the fourth time since the competition commenced in 1928.

A large number of bowls enthusiasts witnessed the afternoon's sport while no fewer than 90 bowlers took part in the competition itself, including H.E. the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, C.M.G., Officer Administering the Government, who skipped one of the Hongkong rinks.

Kowloon proved too good for Hongkong and won by 89 shots, being on top in eight of the 12 rinks, with Hongkong victorious in two, the other two being drawn.

In a review of the season's activities, Mr. A. O. Brown, the President of the Lawn Bowls Association, said the season was probably the most successful one in the history of the Association. He congratulated the Craigengower C.C. on winning both the senior and junior League Shields and for supplying three players for the Interport match in Shanghai last month. He also congratulated the Club de Recreio on winning the Spey Royal Cup and on having a member who won the Open Singles Championship of the Colony.

Going on, Mr. Brown expressed the appreciation of the Association to the Kowloon Bowling Green Club for so kindly lending them the ground and for the splendid way in which they entered for the comfort and convenience of both players and spectators.

Shield Presented.

In the course of his speech, Mr. Brown made the announcement that Mr. L. A. Gutierrez, Open Singles Champion of the Colony, had given a shield to be competed for annually by different national teams.

The speaker thanked Messrs. C. J. Tachell, B. E. Maughan, and A. L. Shields for their assistance during the past season, and also all the sub-committees who had looked after the details of games during the year, especially Mr. H. Hampton and John Hamany.

And canaries: The owner of the bird to be classed as a landlord to pay rates on the cage. There would be a wonderful opportunity for the man who prepares the Bill for the next meeting of the Legislative Council to spread himself on this. "Where there are two or more perches in the one cage, such perch or perches shall be counted as half a cage in such cage or cages. A swing or swings, hanging or dependent, or somehow fixed to the inside of the cage or cages, for the canary or canaries to swing on, shall be regarded as a perch or perches, except in such cases."

Then there are tortoises. They should be made to shell out.

Really, the only way to get the thing on a working basis is for His Excellency the O.A.G. to come and see us at the Telegraph office (Second Floor—office hours between 2 and 2.05 p.m.) and let us go into the thing thoroughly.

TOUCHING SCENE IN LOCAL COURT.

FRIENDS REUNITED AFTER STRANGE BOUT

How the quarrel started no-one knows except the participants, but the case of Leung Lau and Kwan Ping, which was brought to the notice of the Magistrate on Saturday morning, had peculiar features.

The incident happened this way. The two men had an argument, and warming up to it, a brief exchange of blows took place. Finally, Ah Kwan picked up a clay pot and threw it at his companion. It missed Leung by inches.

Leung then proceeded to show his friend how a clay pot could be broken if thrown in the right way. The resulting throw caught Kwan in the face, smashed the pot, and injured the man.

Filled with remorse, Kwan took his crumpled friend to hospital, and then heroically gave himself up to the Police, expecting a grave outcome to his deadly marksmanship. The telephone bell at the station rang, and Kwan was greatly relieved to hear from the hospital that Leung was alive and well, except for a few minor cuts to his face. He offered bail and returned home.

On Saturday, before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy, Leung unreservedly admitted the assault and apparently as a proof of his manliness, pointed to a medal which he displayed on his chest. It was a Bellion Medal which Kwan received in 1930 for life-saving.

The case was settled by the Magistrate binding both men over. A touching scene was then witnessed as, reunited, the friends left the court arm-in-arm.

FOR THE CHILDREN

CHARITY BAZAAR TO BE HELD

The Society of the Precious Blood will be holding a bazaar and fete on the 21st, 22nd, and 23rd, October at its building, Yuen Chow Street, Shumshui, in aid of its children's hospital and orphanage.

Mrs. W. T. Southern has kindly consented to perform the opening ceremony, which will take place on October 21, at 4.30 p.m. The Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall will preside.

The children's hospital has been doing excellent work. Since its opening in June 1932, it has admitted over 800 children. Dr. J. H. McElroy and Dr. Y. Y. Tang have been kind enough to give their services to the hospital gratis.

The orphanage has about 40 children under its care, and the number is increasing.

The following constitute the strong committee for the bazaar:

Patroness, Mrs. Southern; Hon. President, Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall; Hon. Vice President, Mr. Richard C. H. Lim; President, Rt. Rev. Mr. Valtorta; Chairman, Mr. Andrew Tse Yan; Vice Chairman, Mr. Fung Kwong; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. Tse Yung Kwong; Hon. Secretary, Miss Florence I. Chan; General Committee, Dr. Y. Y. Tang, Mr. W. K. Chan, Mr. S. T. Lo, Mr. S. H. Young, Mr. W. M. Chan, Mr. Im Sze Lim, and Mr. W. C. Chan.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONGKONG.

"Atonement" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "I and my Father are one." (John 10: 30).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new. And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation." (II Cor. 5: 17-18).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine Truth, Life, and Love. Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage." (P. 18: 1-5).

CHEFOO ENTERED.

ASSURANCE OF SAFETY FOR FOREIGNERS

Peking, Oct. 15.
It is learned that troops belong to General Han Fu-chu occupied Chefoo without untoward incident attending their entry. It is also stated that the senior officer has given an assurance that foreign lives and property will be fully protected.—Reuter.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

The honour and future of an ancient family are involved in the story of "The Frightened Lady," the film of the starring Edgar Wallace play that had so sensational a run at Wynham's Theatre. Ancestors of the Lebanon's fought at Blenheim, rallied to the archers at Agincourt and acquired themselves doughtily in the Crusades. And now the present Lord Lebanon, last of the line, a slim, spectacled, naive young fellow with a high-pitched voice, and surreptitiously shadowed by a pair of American footmen, finds himself affianced to a lady for whom he has no affection. No matter! The Lebanon line must be carried on, and Aisla Crane is chosen by his strong-willed mother, Lady Lebanon, in order that the name should be perpetuated. But Aisla is frightened—an eerie "something" about Marks Priory has given a jolt to his lovely fiancée's nerves, a "something" that materialises when the country seat of the Lebanon's becomes a scene for two murders by strangulation. These tragedies induce the best brains of Scotland Yard to attempt a solution, thus precipitating a further tragedy that has all the elements of the dramatic and the unexpected. Cathleen Nesbitt as Lady Lebanon, Emlyn Williams as Aisla Crane, Norman McKinnell as Det. Inspector Tanner, and Gordon Barker as Sergeant Totty are included in a brilliant cast that makes of the most talked of play of the year a film that will not readily be forgotten.

"Heaven On Earth"

"A Lily in the mud." This is the description that is being applied to Anita Louise in her role in "Heaven On Earth," the Universal drama in which she is appearing opposite Lew Ayres at the Oriental Theatre today. A frail blonde beauty, almost cherubic in her loveliness, the youthful Anita is seen throughout the picture as a "white trail" child of the South, living among the shanties of the Mississippi River, and clad in a tattered dress rudely fashioned from gunny sacking. Her greatest treasure is a necklace formed of several safety pins looped together. Ayres supporting cast in "Heaven On Earth" in addition to Miss Louise, includes Harry Berensford, Elizabeth Patterson, Charles Grapewin, Lew Kelly, Alf P. James, Harlan Knight, Robert Burns and many others. Russell Mack directed.

SHERIDAN PLAY AT THE UNIVERSITY

"THE RIVALS" A BIG SUCCESS

Members of the Hongkong University Arts Association who took part in the production of R.B. Sheridan's comedy, "The Rivals," in the Great Hall of the University on Saturday night, are to be congratulated on their latest achievement.

Evidence of careful preparation was to be seen in the selection of the cast, and the facile manner with which every performer was able to perform his or her part would have done credit to a professional performance. As it turned out, the large audience present enjoyed every bit of the play and were not slow in demonstrating their appreciation.

Between the acts, musical interludes arranged by Mr. P. Mason, L.T.C.L., A.R.C.O. were contributed by Mr. Mason, Mrs. Griggs, Mrs. Arnold, Mr. H. Leung and Mr. H. Shroeter.

The cast in "The Rivals" was as follows:

Sir Antony Absolute... Chow Kozik.
Captain Absolute... Donald Anderson.
Faulkland... Choy Wing Kee.
Acres... Kerinold Woolley.
Sir Lucius O'Trigger... Walter Hunt.
David... Stanley Broadbridge.
Theresa... S. B. Tata.
Mrs. Malaprop... Katherine Lal.
Lydia Languish... Yvonne Langley.
Julia... Phyllis Kwok.
Lucy... Rose Perry.
A Boy... Eric Kennard.

The proceeds of the dramatic evening will go to the funds of the Society for Protection of Children, and the Tsan Wah Dispensary and Maternity Home.

HOME RULE FOR SCOTLAND.

MOVEMENT GAINS FRESH ENCOURAGEMENT

London, Oct. 16.
The Scottish Home Rule movement, which has gained a certain impetus lately from the growth of the spirit of nationalism in Scotland, has received further encouragement from Sir Herbert Samuel, who told a Scottish Nationalist delegation at Glasgow that his followers were unanimously agreed upon Home Rule for Scotland, and that it would henceforth be a plank in their political platform.

The Scottish Liberal Federation Conference at Perth today passed a resolution by an overwhelming majority, calling upon Liberal M.P.'s to urge the Government to accept self-government for Scotland.

Sir Alexander McEwen, who moved the resolution, said there was no desire to separate from England.—Our Own Correspondent.

CHURCH BAZAAR HELD ON SATURDAY.

MRS. SOUTHERN OPENS FETE AT KOWLOON

Mrs. W. T. Southern, wife of H. E. the Officer Administering the Government, opened the Cosmopolitan Bazaar held at the Kowloon Church Hall on Saturday afternoon.

In a delightful speech she complimented the workers, and wished for the undertaking the big success it deserved.

Prior to the opening ceremony, a hymn was sung, after which the Rev. E. G. Powell offered up a prayer. The Chairman, Mr. J. H. Hunt, spoke of the objects of the bazaar, which was held under the auspices of the Women's Guild, after which a word of appreciation was spoken by the Rev. Frank Short.

Needlework, toys, and novelties constituted the major stock-in-trade of the stalls, and the Church Hall, in which the function was thronged with visitors, and presented a most animated scene. Palmistry, coconut shies, and a wishing well were amongst the other attractions, and these were well patronised.

COTTON SPINNERS' DELIBERATIONS.

COMMITTEE'S EFFORTS TO HELP INDUSTRY

Lugano, Oct. 15.

The committee of the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers Associations, which has brought to a conclusion its labours, passed the following resolutions:

1. To appoint a sub-committee to study the effects of tariffs, currency restrictions, and quotas upon the cotton industry.

2. Approving the recommendations of the joint Egyptian Cotton Committee made last July, deciding to collect information and statistics of the various qualities of Egyptian cotton consumed by the motor tyre industry.

3. Approving the recommendation of the sub-committee regarding the uniform method of testing American c.i.f. cotton for moisture. It was resolved that such cotton shall contain 8½ per cent. moisture, and if less than eight the spinner shall pay the difference to the seller, but if the moisture is more than 8½ per cent. the seller shall pay the spinner the excess above that percentage.—Reuter.

BIG PLAN FOR RELIEF OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

REVENUE-PRODUCING PUBLIC WORKS

London, Oct. 16.

A clamour in certain quarters that the Government should profit by the present cheapness of money to relax restrictions on productive public works developments, has borne fruit, according to some political correspondents.

It is stated that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has drafted a big plan to raise a loan to relieve unemployment through public works that will be revenue-producing when completed.

It is hoped that Mr. MacDonald will make a statement on the matter at a luncheon of the National Labour Party tomorrow.—Reuter.

THE PRINCE RETURNS.

CITY WORKERS GREET H.I.H.

London, Oct. 15.
The Prince of Wales arrived in London shortly after 8 o'clock this morning on the conclusion of his Scandinavian tour, and reached Liverpool Street Station in time to meet city workers.

Upon his arrival the platform was besieged by hundreds of people, who gave the Prince an enthusiastic welcome.

The few policemen on duty had some difficulty in keeping the way clear for the Prince from the platform to his car.

The Prince responded good humouredly to the cheering of the crowds.—British Wireless.

JAPANESE FIRE ON
NANLINGTENSION INCREASED
AT JEROL

Nanking, Oct. 15.
The tension at Jerol has been increased following the action of Japanese troops in opening artillery fire on Nanling yesterday morning, according to a Chinese report from Tientsin.

The same report asserts that opinion in North China is divided as to whether the Japanese action is merely in the nature of a demonstration or a prelude to major operations.

Another report states that the Japanese have mobilised six brigades for a vigorous drive against the Volunteers on the eastern border of Jerol.—Reuter.

Chaos on Railway

Harbin, Oct. 15.
The reign of lawlessness and chaos along the western section of the Chinese Eastern Railway arising from the anti-Manchukuo campaign of the Volunteers has now spread to the eastern section of the line.

Since Monday, two passenger trains and one Japanese armoured train have been wrecked and subjected to a terrific fusillade by large forces of "bandits."

The incidents occurred at different points, one 243 kilometres to the east of Harbin, one 305 kilometres from Harbin and the third five kilometres further along the line. The three trains were all wrecked, the line having been pulled up.

Attacks Beaten Off.

All attacks on the trains were, however, beaten off by Japanese soldiers, who claim to have inflicted heavy losses on the attackers.

It is reported that several Japanese soldiers and passengers were killed and others wounded, but further details are lacking.

The policy of harassing the Manchukuo Government and preventing them from establishing any semblance of order in North Manchuria is being pursued ruthlessly by the Volunteer forces, who have now rendered impossible communication on the Chinese Eastern Railway east of Mienpo.—Reuter.

Huller Bombarded.

Harbin, Oct. 15.
Japanese aeroplanes have bombarded Huller, inflicting considerable damage to the positions of the erstwhile Manchukuo railway guards, according to Japanese reports.

"White" Russian Rumours.
The Soviet authorities deny the "White" Russian rumours that the Volunteers have again raided the Japanese Consulate at Manchull, and killed the Japanese Consul.—Reuter.

GENEVA DISCUSSION.

LYTTON COMMISSION GETS
AN INVITATION

Geneva, Oct. 14.
Members of the Lytton Commission have been invited by the League Council to attend the deliberations of their report.

It is believed this invitation has been extended in accordance with the wishes of the Commissioners, to enable them to expand points that may be raised.

The most important aspect of this position is that it definitely associates the United States with the handling of the Lytton report, because General McCoy, the American member of the Commission, will therefore attend.—Reuter.

WOODRUFF MURDER

HARBIN POLICE ARREST
25 SUSPECTS

Tokyo, Oct. 15.
According to reports from Harbin, 25 suspects have been arrested in connexion with the murder of Mrs. Woodruff, and a grilling examination has revealed that two of them are apparently responsible, including Chang Nan-yan, an ex-soldier and leader of a notorious gang of kidnapers.

The police claim to have found that the same gang was responsible for the attack on the British bankers on the Harbin golf course on September 10.

It is believed that the gang has political backing, as recent outrages appear to have been carried out systematically for the purpose of embarrassing the authorities in their relations with foreign Powers.—Reuter.

Future Protection

Peking, Oct. 15.
A report from Harbin states that the Consular Corps held a meeting to discuss the safety of foreign residents, and the chief of police who promised to improve the policing of the city.—Reuter.

Freedom in Sight

Yingkow, Oct. 15.
The safety of Mrs. Pawley and Mr. Charles Corkran, who are held captive by bandits, is now definitely assured as a result of parleys with the bandits by Japanese military authorities, who are negotiating for the release of the unfortunate couple.

Mr. Clarke, the British Vice-Consul, and Captain Staples, who have been co-operating with the Japanese authorities, have returned from Panchung accompanied by Captain Kawahito.—Reuter.

Negotiations Proceed.

Nowchang, Oct. 15.
Japanese military authorities have had parleys with the captors of Mrs. Muriel Pawley and Mr. Charles Corkran, and have been definitely assured of their safety.

Negotiations for their release are now taking shape.—Reuter.

GERMANY EXCITED

AGRICULTURAL PROBLEM
CONFRONTS CABINET

Berlin, Oct. 15.
Exciting rumours are afloat following the unexpected meeting of the Cabinet to consider a storm of protests over the project to ration agricultural imports.

The Cabinet dealt, inter alia, with a letter from Dr. Luther, President of the Reichsbank, who, according to the newspapers, warned the Government of the impossibility of maintaining the stability of currency unless the quota project be abandoned.

Anxiety has been partly allayed by an official denial that Dr. Luther's letter implies a dangerous situation in the position of the mark, but it is anticipated that the Government will be compelled at least to postpone the project.

The quota system was the price paid by the Papen-Schleicher Government for the support of the agriculturists. It aroused the bitter opposition of the industrialists, and threats of reprisals from neighbouring countries.—Reuter.

WONDERFUL WATER
SCHEME.ANOTHER STAGE IN THE
LOCHABER VENTURE

London, Oct. 15.
Another stage in the progress of the Lochaber Water Power scheme has been reached with completion, this week, of the Laggan pressure tunnel, three miles long and more than fifteen feet in diameter, through which the waters of Loch Laggan and the Spean River will be turned into Loch Treig in Invernesshire, Scotland.

The scheme, which is being undertaken by private enterprise, includes some of the biggest engineering works of their kind ever carried out in Great Britain. It is designed to tap the Scottish Lochs in order to produce electrical energy for the manufacture of aluminium.

When completed the installed plant will have a capacity of 130,000 horsepower, which will operate on a continuous basis.

The scheme draws on a catchment area of 303 square miles. The Works include three major, and fourteen smaller dams, 18 miles of pressure tunnels, and one mile of pipe line and tail race.

Striking Feature.

A striking feature is the Ben Nevis tunnel, 15 miles long and about 15 feet in diameter, the driving of which through granite and schist was successfully completed in 1929. This tunnel, which is lined with a mass of concrete, is the biggest thing of its kind in the British Empire. It carries the water of Loch Treig under the mountains to a steel pipe line connected to the power house of the factories at Fort William.

The dumping of Loch Treig will raise its level by 40 feet, and thus would submerge a mile and a half of railway line, which has been lifted, without dislocation of traffic by 45 feet.

About 1,000 men are employed on the construction of the dams and tunnel.—British Wireless.

IRISH PARLEY FAILS

IRELAND NOW OWED
£250,000,000!

London, Oct. 15.
The Anglo-Irish negotiations, in connexion with the financial matters in dispute, have failed.—Reuter.

London, Oct. 15.
The last stage of the abortive Anglo-Irish conference in London between the Government and the Irish Free State was the revival of the original proposal for arbitration, when it was obvious that settlement by the tribunal by direct negotiations had failed, but the old difficulty as to whether the tribunal should be drawn exclusively from the Empire proved a final stumbling block.

Those Land Annuities.
It is understood that the Free State delegates are aggrieved that their "reasoned case" met with a negative attitude from the beginning. On the other hand, according to British political correspondents, the British refused to concede the basic Irish claim that land annuities were illegal.

Mr. De Valera is alleged to have argued from the novel viewpoint that according to the various treaties and agreements, Britain is theoretically indebted to Ireland for a sum approaching £250,000,000.—Reuter.

BELFAST TRADE UNIONS
ACCEPT TERMS

Belfast, Oct. 15.
The Trade Unions have accepted the revised terms for outdoor relief, and have declared the proposed General Strike off.—Reuter.

20 Per Cent Increase.

Belfast, Oct. 14.
Minor incidents connected with the unrest and dissatisfaction among the unemployed continue daily.

The possibility of a general strike, urged by the Trades Council, is, however, believed to have been definitely averted.

The situation has improved considerably as a result of the decision of the Ministry for Home Affairs to increase outdoor relief from 40 to 60 per cent.

Official Measures.

The Ministry has also agreed that the outdoor relief workers who refused to carry on owing to the low rate of pay will be allowed to resume without victimisation.

The Corporation of Belfast is assisting in removing the social unrest by providing for additional distress relief works to which the Government of Northern Ireland will contribute half the cost.—Reuter.

HALT TO WHISKY PRODUCTION

DISTILLERIES TO STOP WORK IN SCOTLAND

Owing to the high rate of duty on whisky, Scottish pot still distillers, at a meeting in Elgin, have agreed to a general stoppage of distilleries in the combine.

The decision will affect thousands of workmen directly concerned, as well as those in kindred trades. No whisky will be made in the season 1932-3, and other distilleries outside the combine will work only a short period.

In an interview a member of the distillers' association declared that ware-houses were full and, with a steadily decreasing outlet, there was no other alternative but to close the distilleries of Scotland.

"It is the biggest slump we have yet experienced. We have millions of gallons in our warehouses. In one little burgh, Rosneath, there is at least 2,000,000 gallons which, if sold, would bring in £7,000,000."

"It costs about 3s. 6d. to produce one gallon of whisky, while on that one gallon the Government extract in duty 72s. 6d. There are 61 distilleries in Scotland, 78 of which are under the Pot Malt Distillers' Association."

Protests to Government.

Heavy as has been the decrease in home consumption in recent years, it is expected that unless there is a substantial reduction in duty, consumption will fall even lower.

The position is most acutely felt in Strathpey, Morayshire, which district is largely dependent on distilling. Barley, which was being grown with expectations of a satisfactory price, will now have to be used for cattle feeding.

Scottish farmers have decided to make a protest to the Government against the large tax on whisky, in view of the plight of the Scottish distilleries.

"We can give no hope for a resumption of work until the tax on whisky is reduced," said a well-known distiller. "The approaching crisis was brought to the notice of the Government both by the distillers and the farmers, but nothing was done. We are to make renewed protests to the Government asking for fair treatment. We want liquor taxed according to its alcoholic strength."

It is anticipated that the distillers and farmers will forward separate protests.

THREAT TO JERSEY POTATOES

STEPS TO RETAIN THE ENGLISH MARKET

The collapse of potato prices during the last season, and the prospects for 1933, were discussed at a mass meeting of Jersey farmers recently.

It was emphatically stated that unless drastic action was taken to prevent the export of diseased potatoes Jersey would lose the English markets, and that even now there were some distributors on the mainland who declined to accept any more Jerseys unless a guarantee were given.

Mr. Malzard, the inspector appointed by the Jersey States to watch the English markets, declared that it was no exaggeration to say that Jersey produce stank on the English markets, and that unless strong action was taken there was not the slightest doubt the producers would be faced with ruin.

He suggested that the only possible cure was to insist on farmers' produce being sent in their own names only. By that means would they track down the guilty persons and get the good name of the States back.

It was unanimously decided to request the States Committee to meet delegates of the three societies represented at the meeting with a view to taking drastic action, a report of suggestions to be submitted later.

BRITISH MINISTER TO VENEZUELA

AN INCIDENT RECALLED

The King has been pleased to approve the appointment of Mr. Edward Allis Keeling, a Counsellor in his Majesty's Diplomatic Service, to be his Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at Caracas.

An incident occasioned by a dog is recalled by the foregoing announcement. Mr. W. E. O'Reilly, whom Mr. Keeling succeeds, last December had a difference with the Venezuelan authorities over his dog, which was poisoned.

The Venezuelan authorities, fearing rabies, had ordered all dogs without muzzles to be poisoned. Mr. O'Reilly found his own dog, an alreale, poisoned in a street at Caracas, although it wore a collar stating who was the owner. He contended that the humane course would be to impound stray dogs and then asphyxiate them if unclaimed.

It was subsequently announced that Mr. O'Reilly was leaving Venezuela at his own request. He had been British Minister at Caracas since 1926.

RIVIERA EXPRESS WRECKED

A RAIL REMOVED FOR REPAIR

Paris, Sept. 6. The Paris-Ventimiglia express was derailed between the stations of St. Andre and St. Henri, five miles out of Marseilles, at 10.30 this morning. About a dozen people were injured, six of them seriously.

The accident was due to the absence of part of the rail, which had been removed for repairs. A red flag had been placed on the line as a warning, but the driver says that it could not be seen in time for him to draw up.

Although he put on the brakes as soon as he saw the flag, the engine ran off the rails and, after continuing for about 100 yards along the track, fell over on its side. The two leading coaches, both third class, fell over, and the third—also third class, ran off the rails and straddled the track.

Help was quickly organised, and the injured, most of whom were in the first two coaches, were extricated and taken by ambulance to hospital. Several of them had only received cuts from broken glass, and were able to continue their journey.

The line was completely blocked, and traffic had to be deflected on the other route. An inquiry has been opened to ascertain the responsibility for the accident. Many soldiers and sailors returning to Marseilles and Toulon from leave were on the train.

LONDON STEAMER EXPLOSION

CAPTAIN IN HOSPITAL AT GIBRALTAR

Gibraltar, Sept. 6. William R. Dickson, captain of the British steamer Corton, and four men of his crew have been landed and put in hospital following an explosion this morning six miles east of Europa Point, following a fire in No. 1 hold containing coal. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Captain Dickson happened to be near the hatchway when the explosion occurred and received the most serious burns and injuries to the body. His condition is not, however, considered grave.

BATTLE IN PEACE PALACE

BRICKS AND STONES FLY AT GENEVA

Geneva, Sept. 4. A pitched battle took place yesterday in the half-completed League of Nations Palace. Six hundred strikers led by local Communists made an attack upon the building, and fought hand to hand with the police and loyal workers.

The strikers who were members of the Federation of Joiners and Builders Labourers declared a one-day strike yesterday morning as a protest against a proposed reduction of wages, although the question is under arbitration by the authorities.

Nearly all building operations in the City ceased, but work on the new League building continued. This apparently enraged the strikers, who marched in a body towards the building, followed by police in lorries.

Taking advantage of the police lorries being held up at a level crossing, an army of strikers streamed across the huge park in which the building stands, smashed down doors and windows, and pulled down scaffolding. Many of them scaled the walls, from which vantage points they bombarded the loyal workers with stones, bricks and other missiles.

Serious Damage.

The victims of this onslaught, indignant at the interference of the strikers, returned the fire with another fusillade of bricks, and a furious battle, intensified by the arrival of the police, continued for some time.

Order was eventually restored and the strikers driven from the premises by the police. Several arrests were made, including that of the Communist leader, Megevan, who took a prominent part in the rioting.

Serious damage was done to the buildings; broken glass, shattered woodwork and the bricks and stones that are lying everywhere bear testimony to the violence of the struggle in the future Palace of Peace.

Although the demonstration was declared by the strikers' leaders to be finished before noon, considerable unrest prevailed in the city throughout the day, and there was a slight outbreak in another quarter later. The efficiency with which the attack on the League building was carried out has led

BOMBAY LIBERALS AND REFORMS

HOPE OF NEW DAY FOR INDIA

Bombay, Sept. 6. Bombay Liberals are meeting on Thursday evening to decide their attitude in view of the Viceroy's statement on procedure for constitutional reforms.

Meanwhile, H. P. Mody, an Independent, who normally takes the Liberal attitude, has given the meeting a lead. He guardedly welcomes the announcement, and hopes that a new day may be dawning for India and the Empire.

The local Nationalist papers are querulous as usual. The Bombay Chronicle says the conference is not free, since the obligation to carry on negotiations on every disputed point till agreement is reached is not acknowledged. "No self-respecting Indian Nationalist should touch these proposals with a barge pole."

The Free Press practically ignores the announcement of constitutional reforms procedure, being embodied in the Statute Book. It says that this proposal once for all leaves citizens no alternative but to choose between Congress and Government.

FACTORY BUILT IN TEN WEEKS

HIGH SPEED AT THE WOLSELEY WORKS

In order to cope with the Wolseley motor-car programme for 1933 a factory consisting of a steel hall covering 110,000 square feet has been extemporised in ten weeks at order of Sir William Morris.

When the 1933 Wolseley programme was decided on it was found that the existing works would be unable to handle it because the shops were still busy on the 1932 cars.

Sir William Morris, therefore, gave a special order for the additional building, and work was carried on continuously for ten weeks. Machinery is already being installed, and soon the new shops will be operating.

The authorities to conclude that the affair had been carefully organised beforehand.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

There is a popular impression that one should not open the bidding in fourth position except with a very strong hand. Many experts formerly held that view, but most of them have now abandoned it in favour of lighter fourth hand bids.

In the following hand both sides were vulnerable, and according to the old theories, not one of the four hands contained a sound vulnerable opening bid.

♠Q-3	♥K-4	♦J-8-5-2	♣Q

It is interesting to note that the East hand contained values which could not accurately be measured by a table of high card tricks. It had both major suits well under control, so if the opponents were to do any competitive bidding, it would probably have to be in the minors.

To be sure, the chance for game was remote, but it seemed probable that a partial score could be made in either spades or hearts, and the opportunity was too good to neglect.

The Bidding.

East opened with one spade after three passes. South bid one diamond and West bid two spades, proceeding cautiously until he learned the strength of his partner's hand. North raised to three diamonds and East passed to show his partner that he had opened on a comparatively weak hand. South passed and West bid three spades, which closed the contracting. The information exchanged during the bidding convinced both partners that it was unwise to try for game.

The Play.

South opened the three of diamonds on which North played the queen and declarer, in the East, won with the ace. He played a small spade to dummy's ace and returned a spade to the king in his own hand. He led the queen of hearts, which South covered and dummy won with the ace. Declarer threw the lead to North with the queen of clubs. The opponents took two rounds of clubs and the declarer was obliged to concede them a heart trick at the end. He just made his three spade contract.

RE-ORGANISATION OF LEAGUE.*COMPROMISE REACHED AT LAST

Geneva, Oct. 15.

After ten days of differing, the League sub-committee reached a compromise on the German proposal regarding the reorganisation of the League Secretariat, when it was agreed that no Power should have more than two nationals of higher rank in the Secretariat.

The agreement, which is to be submitted to the final meeting of the Assembly on Monday, also provides for a French Secretary-General, two assistant Secretaries-General who will be Italian and Norwegian respectively, and three Under-Secretaries of British, German and Japanese nationality.

Economy Cut.

British pressure is regarded as being largely responsible for an economy cut of 351,531 francs effected in the League budget voted this evening by the Budget Commission, though this economy will be absorbed by unavoidable items such as 436,000 francs for the World Economic Conference.

Sir Eric Drummond, the League Secretary-General, announced that it was proposed to appoint the German Under-Secretary-General in charge of the economic financial section of the League, this being regarded as the price for German acquiescence to the prospective appointment of M. Joseph Avenol as successor to Sir Eric Drummond.

Roland stayed at Phillibert Court a considerable time after Dr. Acton Wogle had left, talking rather intimately, but vaguely and purposelessly with Mr. and Mrs. Friar. Mr. Friar's opinion of the doctor had fallen. The doctor had said that Phoebe was too weak even to stand, and so she had escaped from her keepers and scurried down the corridor, being overtaken only at the drawing-room door. The doctor had explained that feat by the assertion that a woman when excited could bring up immense reserves of nervous energy. To which Mr. Friar had dryly retorted that he had previously postulated the total exhaustion of Phoebe's nervous energy. When the doctor had departed Mr. Friar had remarked that the man's chief asset was his name, obviously destined for a brass plate in Wimpole Street or Harley Street, with a 'Sir' in front of it. The name once heard, nobody could ever forget it. But Roland had professed a belief in the soundness of the doctor's which belief was sincere—and Mr. Friar, much disturbed by events, had bowed the head in surrender: "You may be right." Roland had decided to walk to Half Moon Street.

He wanted to think. He had been a mere spectator of the scene in the corridor; he had done nothing, said nothing. The role, as he reflected upon it, satisfied him less and less. He ought to have been and played the St. George, to have shown initiative, dominated the group, and especially Phoebe, been recognized as a strong individuality. . . . Absurd, because impossible! What upset him more than his own quiescence was Phoebe's violent remark to him: "Why did you tell all my friends to leave my dressing-room last night?" Of course she didn't mean it, did not know what she was saying; it had risen up from the sub-conscious. Ah! but it came from the sub-conscious, it must have expressed a genuine thought, a thought so deep that she herself had no suspicion of its existence. He had been entirely right to clear her dressing-room. Curious that neither the parents nor the doctor had uttered a single word of comment on her angry remark to him! Very curious! . . . Her heart was hostile to him. Her heart was hostile to him. Her heart—he could not bear the idea. As he walked along Knightsbridge and Piccadilly in the warm light evening, he simply could not bear it. Naturally, having an inquiring mind, he asked himself: "Am I in love with her? Am I really actually in love for the first time in my life?" No! It was not and could not be that. He liked her. His feeling for her was brotherly. She had gifts. She had intelligence. She had the native of what perhaps was genius. He admired her. But love? No. He did not know what love was. He was sure, however, that he knew what love was not. . . . His dream about her jumped up at intervals and made as if to assault him. But he easily beat it off. The dream was ridiculous, a theme for the aged chatter of the superstitious. Her heart was hostile to him. He had tried to help her; he had been a very friendly brother to her. And, deep down, she detested him.

Arrived at his home, he saw his dress-clothes laid out in his bedroom according to command, for he had accepted an invitation to dinner. He could not tolerate the sight of the clothes and the innuence of a social evening. Impulsively he went to the semi-public telephone in the hall, and by a deceitful and unconvincing prevarication, excused himself, thus at the last moment, from attending the dinner. He was free! He would dine at his club, and lose himself in cynical male gossip.

Now the theatre was not far on the way to the club. He made a detour of a third of a mile in order to pass by the front of it. Why? He was a morbid fool. Two long queues of people were filing into the pit and the gallery entrances. An electric sign glittered large on the face of the theatre: "The Tenement Girl. Phoebe Friar." He crossed the road to inspect the bills. A strip bearing the words "Rosie Draper" had been pasted over the name of the sick woman. Suddenly the electric sign died out. He crossed the street. He saw two workmen high up on the facade. Then the words "The Tenement Girl" reappeared, but the name of Phoebe Friar did not, though it could still be clearly read in the early dusk. The phenomenon terribly depressed him. But he thought: "I am an idiot. They couldn't possibly keep her name 'burning.' Still, it did seem to the idiot in him that Phoebe had been annihilated. The club, always full for lunch, was at night the final resources of a few members, mainly bores. He glanced in at the dining-room and saw fewer members than usual, and not one with whom he cared to dine. And now he felt a horror of general conversation. He sat down at a small table and ate by himself. Then, moody and acutely dejected, he went home. He took a taxi because he had an intense desire to be alone, to sink completely into solitary gloom, as quickly as possible.

To Roland, the night seemed to grow warmer. He took off jacket and waistcoat, switched himself in a crimson silk dressing-gown, once the pride of an enigmatic young shop assistant in Jermyn Street (but it was too thin to wear in winter), and arranged his body at length in the easiest chair in his sitting-room, and lit a pipe. He would have read; a book might have diverted his mind to the concentration necessary for reading. He preferred to luxuriate in misery. He was magnificently and (as one layer of his brain told him) causelessly miserable. He was too miserable to switch on the electric light, and the room darkened. When his pipe went out, sulking under neglect, he was too miserable to give it a second chance; he merely chewed the tip of its stem. He was ecstatic in melancholy. Then his man invaded the sitting-room.

"Mr. Thomasson to see you, sir. He says urgent. But I have not said that you are at home." "Oh damn!" Roland murmured. "Turn the light on, will you please? Er—yes, of course I will see him. Bring him up." The man turned on the light and went downstairs, leaving the door ajar. Roland sprang forward in the chair, and seized a book from the table; and, with time to spare, he revived his pipe. Tommy, entering, saw a friend sprawling in an easy chair, puffing at a pipe, and apparently absorbed in the perusal of a literary work of terrific interest,—so absorbed indeed that for an instant he seemed to be unaware of the presence of a visitor.

Roland did not leave his chair; but he dropped the book on to his knees, and, perceiving a strange, sad look on Tommy's handsome face, he at once forced himself into a mood of gaiety.

"Hello!" he exclaimed, still lounging. "What about that Division?"

"Division be damned!" said Tommy. "You appear to be expecting a woman to slip in."

"I never expect a woman to do anything. I always expect her not to do it. Safest."

"Where did you put up that dressing-gown?"

"I can't remember. Had it years. But if you like I'll crick my neck and examine the label inside the back of its neck."

"I thought you were dining out to-night."

UNFINISHED MASTERPIECE

Arnold Bennett's last long story was left unfinished, but this does not spoil its worth or readable quality, but rather adds a mystery value which will be found very intriguing.

A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.
 This is a condition for which many names are given but few really understand. It is simply weakness break down as it is called, the vital forces that sustain the system. No man is what he is because they are almost invariably the result of a disease or depression of the system. Now, what alone is essential in all such cases is increased vitality, strength and energy to throw off these morbid feelings, and as might be expected the day this may be more certainly secured by a course of THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY.

In either case, and it is difficult to imagine a disease or depression whose main feature is weakness, that will not be speedily and permanently overcome by this powerful remedy, which is designed to cast into oblivion everything that had preceded it. For this reason, it is a true and reliable remedy. See the Price List, "Lamp of Life," reference to Dr. L. C. Clark Co., Harrogate Rd., W. W. A. London, Eng.

INSIST ON WHITE'S—THE ORIGINAL ELECTRIC COMB

An eminent authority has stated that the next generation—as a result of our present mode of life—will certainly go bald. Unless the hair is given a daily electrical revitaliser.

HAIR TROUBLES DISAPPEAR.

What is needed is a regular daily combing with White's Electric Comb; then your hair troubles will disappear. The electric current passes from one tooth to another and through the hair. The hair is revitalised, its growth stimulated, and the dormant roots awakened to new life.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

YOUR CHILDREN.

Don't Let Sonny Become Over-excited.

Nerves are telegraph wires. They possess automatic shut-offs. When the brain becomes fogged or excited the switch to the stomach closes and that station ceases work.

This is why so many adults and children otherwise normally healthy suddenly develop digestive upsets without any warning or apparent reason.

Excitement consists of many things. Happiness, sorrow, anger, fear, or any complex suddenly accentuated will almost certainly hit at the stomach, especially if the sufferer happens to be of a sensitive, high-strung nature.

Several times this summer I have observed children who were supposed to have a complaint due to heat, go down with fever, purring and vomiting after some form of unusual excitement. It did not occur to their mothers that nerve strain may have been the principal cause. But there was not much question in my mind that it was to blame.

There is this to be said about a party or a picnic:

Through sheer anticipation a child becomes taut. He thinks about it beforehand, then there is the actual preparation and the trip.

Usually his emotional state keeps up through the day, often accompanied by physical over-exertion.

All Parties Aren't Fun.

We have a habit of thinking that anything in the nature of a holiday or celebration delights a child. For the most part it does, too. But

This suit, fashioned from one of the new woollen fabrics, has a brief, double-breasted jacket adorned with four large buttons. With the ensemble black suede pumps, with a paddle of black patent leather that gives a buckled effect, are worn. The elastic gore, which holds it in place, is concealed. A cockeyed beret, pull-on gloves, and a polka dot scarf keep up the debonair spirit of the costume.

Extreme décolleté frocks are no longer good except for very formal wear. This charming dinner dress by Pansy has the back veiled by a shaded green lace yoke.

FOR THE SWEET COURSE.

Banana and Tangerine Sponge Mould.

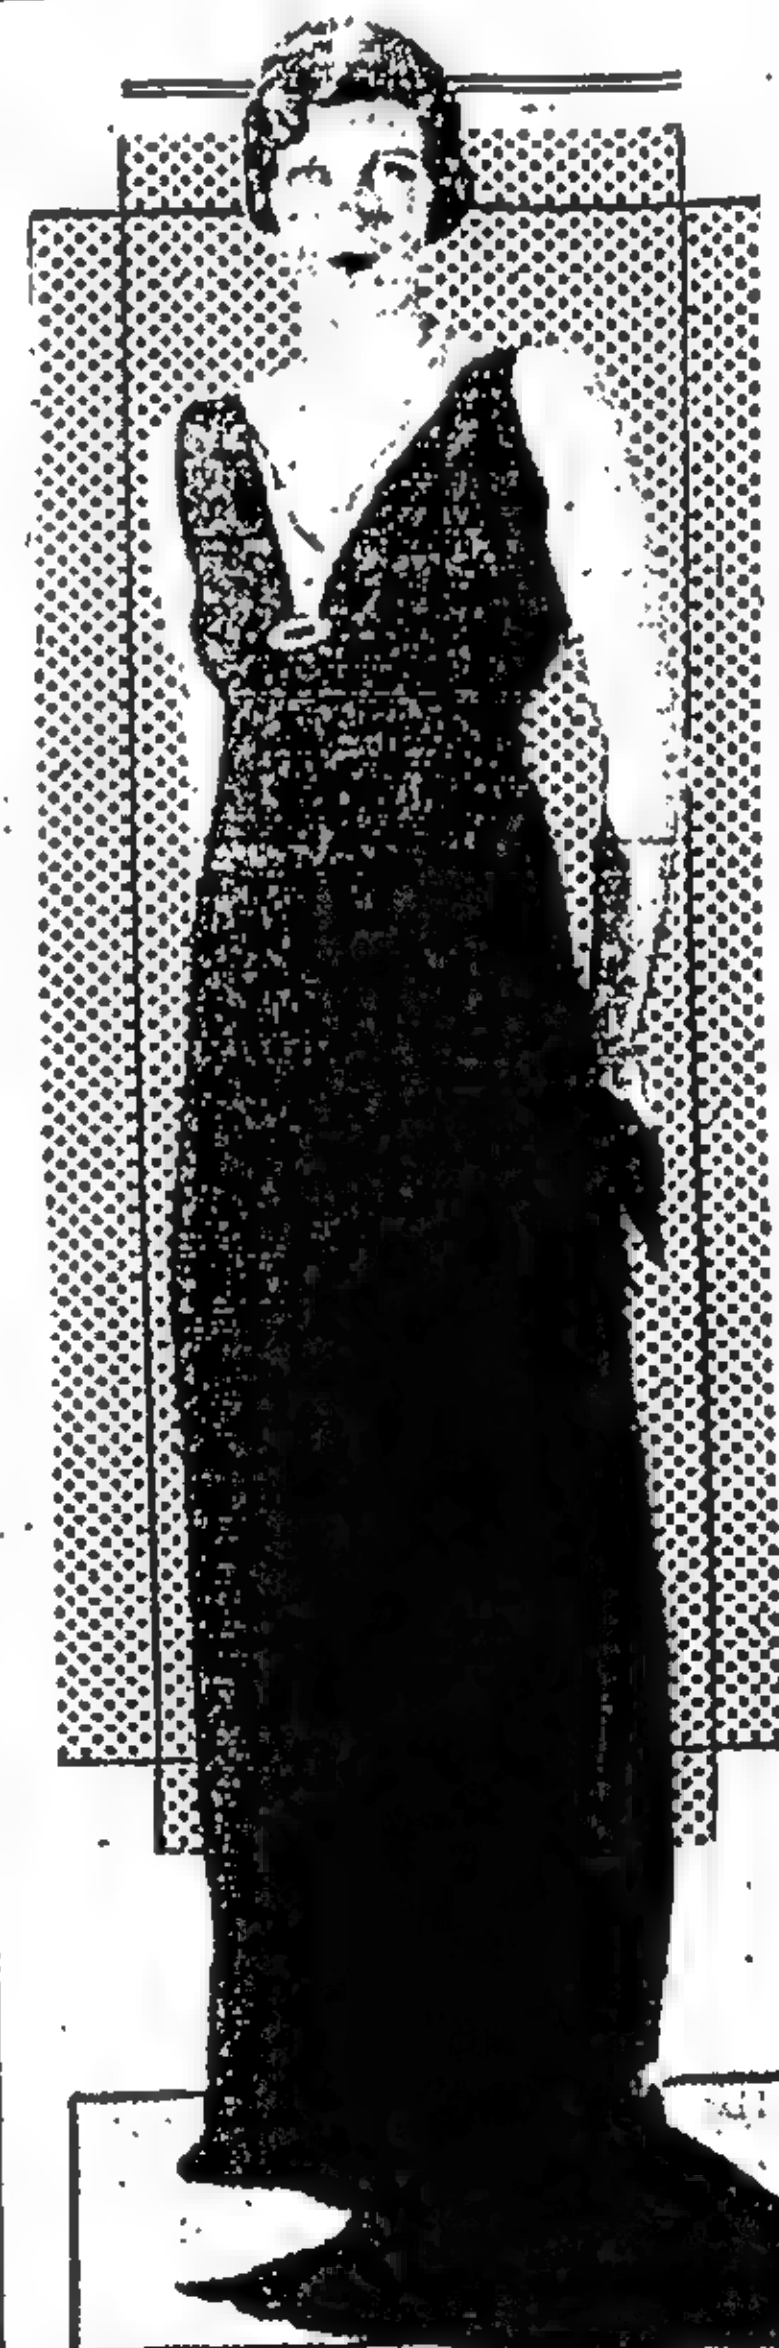

Required: 1 pint tangerine jelly, one large or two small bananas, one small tin of sliced apricots or peaches, and two sponge cakes.

Open the tin of fruit and strain off the juice into a saucepan: make up the balance with water enough for the jelly according to directions. When the jelly is dissolved put in half the tinned fruit, the banana cut into slices, and the sponge cakes crumbled up. Mix well, pour into wetted moulds. This tastes very nice plain or served with clotted cream together with the remainder of the fruit.

Raspberry Soufflé.
Stew 1lb. of raspberries in a very little water till tender, drain off the juice and mash the fruit. Put the yolks of two eggs in the top of a double boiler, the fruit puree and sugar to taste, and whisk them over boiling water until thick and creamy. Take off and continue whisking till cool, then stir in half a gill of whipped cream and quarter of an ounce of gelatine dissolved in a little of the fruit juice; fold in the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and serve in individual soufflé dishes.

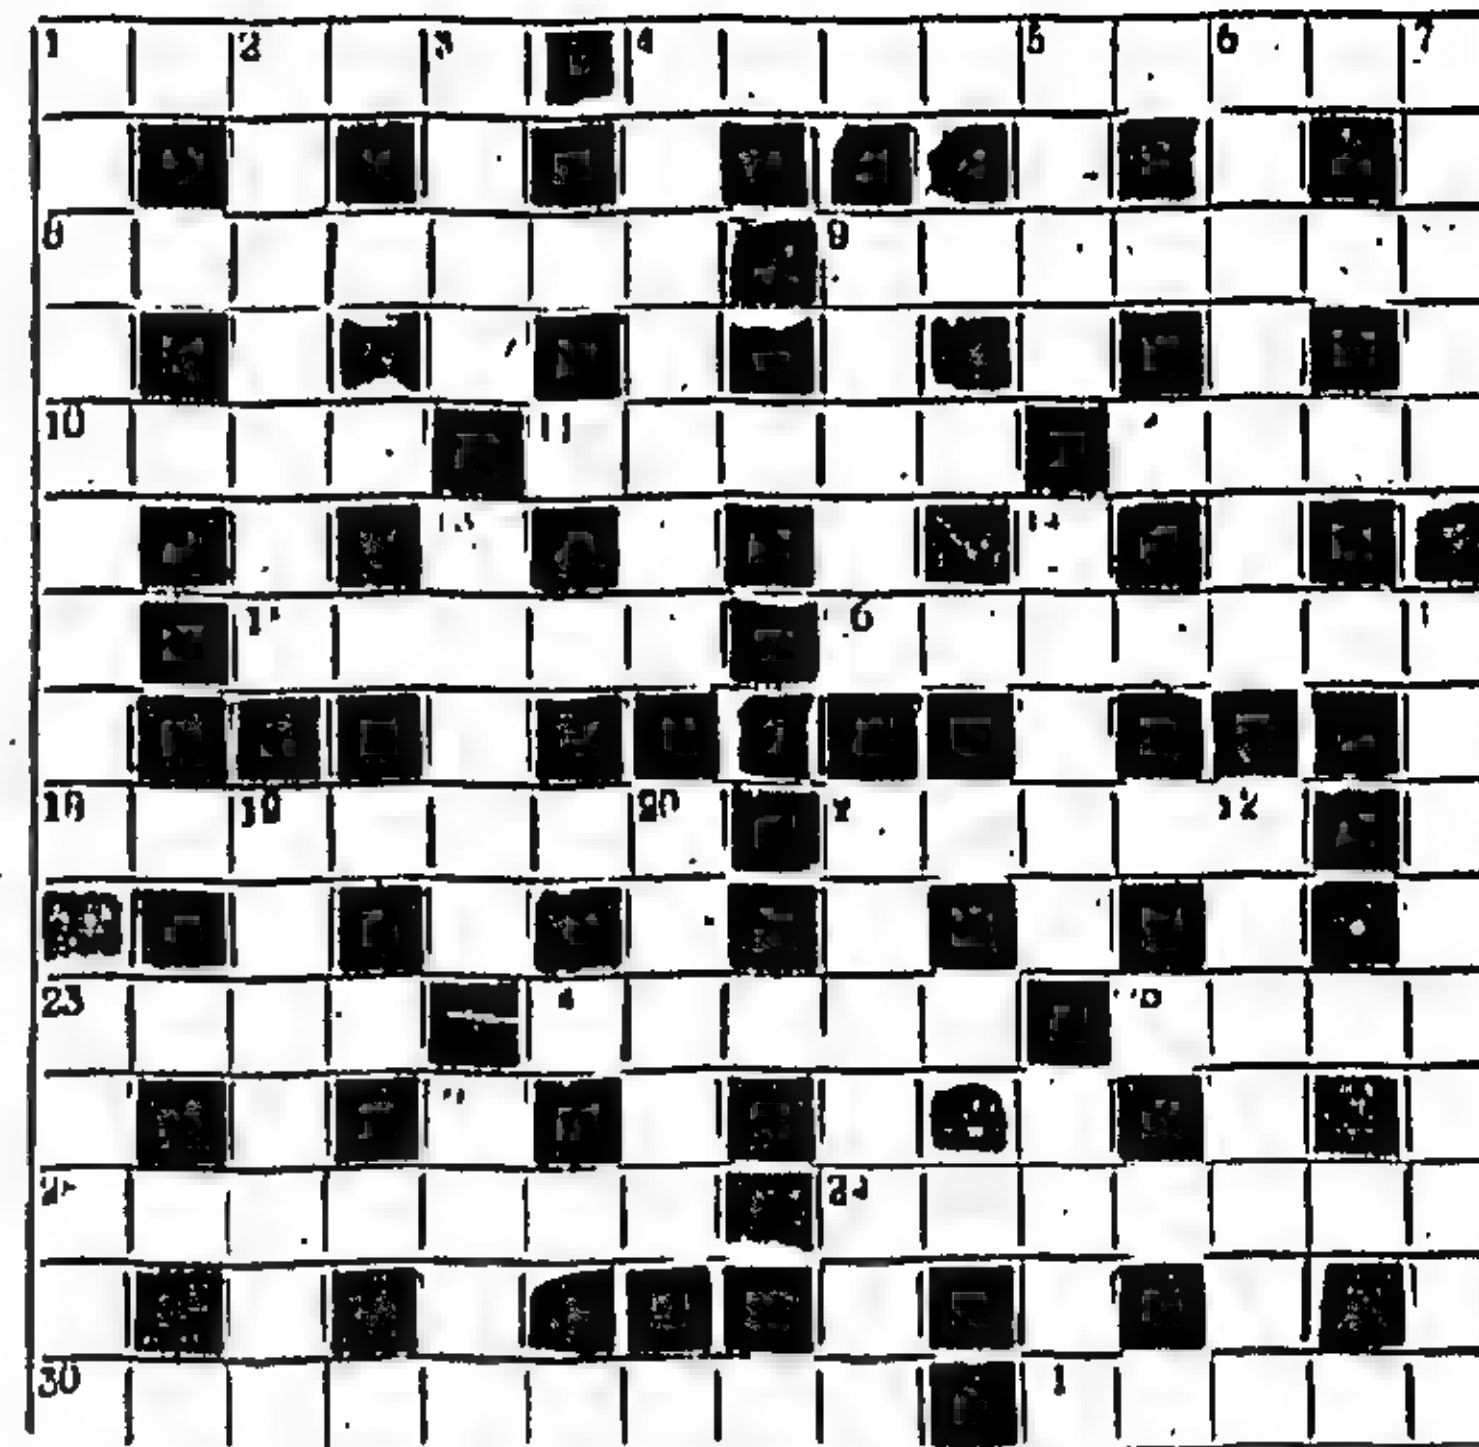

Green-gage Charlotte.

Cut some thin fingers of bread, dip them in oiled butter and arrange round the sides and bottom of a pudding basin. Wash 1lb. green-gages, put them in layers in the basin with sugar and some thin shreds of almonds in between. Cover with a layer of fingers dipped in oiled butter and bake in a moderate oven for three-quarters of an hour. Turn out and serve with custard or cream.

This dress of crepon is in a deep shade of blue. The high waistline in front is dropped at the back.

MASS PRODUCTION

The disequilibrium that has arisen between producers of food and raw materials and producers of manufactured goods and merchants, a portent in modern industrial conditions, is a matter to which little notice has been given. Professor H. J. Fleure, in his presidential address to the Section of Geography of the British Association, has drawn attention to this disequilibrium, and attributes it, in part at least, to various types of society the world over attempting to graft on their ancient heritage the new scheme of mass production. Professor Fleure sees in the development of conditions, whether intentional or not, how the peoples of the world, touched by the idea of mass production, are jostling one another as never before, and various types of society have become a standing danger to others. The old-time plea of Adam Smith for specialization between individuals and between parts of a nation has become a plea for the specialization of nations, and the laissez faire doctrine which has followed it has been an idea that all would be for the best if economic rivalry were unbridled and the best were allowed to win freely. In the light of conditions that have arisen this conception has to be re-examined. In pursuit of his argument Professor Fleure traces the history of traditionalism in an economic sense. He shows the trends of both rural and urban life in various nations. He sees a conflict between different ideas of society underlying the present difficulties of the world, and nowhere is it so acute as in France and ruins M. Blum's thesis," says M.

Germany. There is, as well, the spread of large scale industrialism in the United States and Japan and the prospect of its emergence elsewhere. He sees nearly half of mankind in the monsoon lands of Asia, apart from Japan, being shaken out of its traditional schemes by contact with the West. He sees nationalist ideas germinating in various ways alongside of schemes of industrial development that borrow from the West to such an extent as to be a danger to indigenous society. Professor Fleure admits there has been a difficult phase of the world's life reached. Traditionalism, he says, is challenged everywhere in economic, social and religious life as never before. The social group is inevitably part of a great future whole, and yet is being forced to think more of its roots in its own soil. Each group has its problems and needs the help of others.

England has her population problem. France her need to safeguard her peasant tradition, Germany her need to develop her schemes of welfare planning, and so on. But the development of each without domination by any is a very difficult idea to work out, and in our attempts we are all too likely to try to crystallize out some condition of status quo, forgetting that life has change as one of its basic characteristics. The study of men and their environments that we geographers pursue is necessarily always relative to a particular time, and must always be looked at in the broad frame of the life of mankind as a whole.

Franco-German Tension.

The Four-Power Conference recommended by Great Britain as offering prospects of bringing Germany back into the disarmament fold will do no good unless there is a marked change of spirit. Germany is reluctant to enter upon it at all and makes conditions. The Nationalist forces in France are stirring up feelings of bitterness. At the moment, there is only one encouraging feature in the situation. M. Herriot is placatory and he can rely upon the support of the powerful Socialist group even while he has refused to accept them as his allies in the Chamber. The Socialist attitude is fully explained by M. Leon Blum in his newspaper, Le Populaire. His argument is that French interests would be furthered by an acceptance of the German demand for legal equality of armaments; that France should see the justice of General von Schleicher's position that unless the signatories of the Treaty of Versailles carry out their own armaments, Germany will be justified in disregarding the treaty and rearming; and that such a French policy is the more advisable because of the present strength of German Nationalists and Hitlerites. This is precisely the opposite of the French Nationalist reasoning. They have maintained that General von Schleicher's threat is a conclusive argument against any reduction of French forces, and should bar any admission of legal equality. M. Blum's point is that this plays directly into the hands of the German Nationalists and that the best way of weakening them is to make a success of the Geneva Disarmament Conference. Then they would be pledged to hold Germany's armaments at the levels which the conference fixed and would no longer be able to charge "breach of contract" because France and her allies refused to disarm in accordance with the pledge of the Treaty of Versailles. The fulfilment by Germany of her undertakings would be insured by the international inspection for which the disarmament treaty would provide. If, on the other hand, the conference should fail, M. Blum says, the secret armaments—which part of the French press alleges Germany to possess—would remain more secret and thus more vaguely threatening. M. Blum's critics charge him with lack of logic, but they have a good deal of difficulty in showing the exact nature of the lack. "What is it so acute as in France and ruins M. Blum's thesis," says M.

Pierre Bernus in Journal des Debats. "As that it is based upon an initial fiction—the fiction that the Reich will execute its contractual obligations." The question of German good faith, however, has been raised to oppose every French concession since the armistice, and few would now allege that any one of these concessions was unwise and that the anticipated bad faith materialized. Moreover, it must be remembered that the military clauses of the Treaty of Versailles were imposed by force, and Germany has never considered them morally binding. Evasions, therefore, have not seemed to her immoral. Evasions of a treaty freely entered into would be an entirely different matter.

WHY CLIMB MOUNT EVEREST?

By SIR FRANCIS YOUNGHUSBAND

THE chance for another attempt on Everest has come at last.

We have sought it for the last eight years, ever since the failure of the third expedition—"we" being the Everest Committee of the Royal Geographical Society and the Alpine Club, formed in 1920 for sending expeditions to climb Mount Everest.

We knew the mountain could be climbed. The expeditions had proved that. Whether Mallory and Irvine had succeeded or not in reaching the summit before they died, at any rate Norton and Somervell had reached the level of 28,000 feet, and had seen that there was no physical obstacle in the remaining thousand feet to prevent their reaching the summit.

The Atmosphere.

Besides the cold and the fearful winds and the snow, the only real difficulty is the thinness of the atmosphere at those high altitudes. There is not enough oxygen in the air. Men have to puff and pant to get in a sufficiency of oxygen to meet their bodily needs. Seven, eight, nine breaths between each step they have to take at the 20,000 feet level.

And, for all we knew till the last expedition, this might have been a complete bar to the summit ever being reached. But that expedition did demonstrate this all-important fact, that men can acclimatise themselves to the highest levels.

The present expedition will start with the great advantage of that knowledge. They will know that the thing can be done. Previous expeditions could only hope it. But they will not know who can do it. That will still remain in doubt.

Spent to the Last Gas.

Some men acclimatise better than others. Odell acclimatized very slowly. He was almost set aside on that account. But eventually he was able to go twice to 27,000 feet. And the new expedition will have to remember this. Also they will be able to profit by the experience of those very brilliant Bavarian climbers on Kanchenjunga.

But though it is certain that man will some day reach the summit, it is equally certain that only men of the finest physical fitness, of the steadiest nerve, and of the firmest will can accomplish the feat. And only then after running risks from avalanches and from slips on the shiny sides of the final ridge, and after enduring untold hardships from biting blizzards, from driving snow, and from arctic cold.

Climbing Everest is the severest possible strain upon man, and he will only reach the summit spent to the last gasp.

Spectators' Part.

But what a thrilling drama in real life is the whole struggle with Everest. Act III, ended with Mallory and Irvine last seen "going strong for the top," but never heard of again. What will Act IV disclose?

Will it bring a message from Mallory like the diaries found on Scott and Amundsen? And will it finish gloriously with the mount-tain at last beneath the foot of man? Or is he to be once more thrown back, and shall we have to wait for still another Act before the drama is completed?

The chief actors in it have to make the drama as they go along. But we spectators also have to play our part. What is it to be?

Are we to look on with cold indifference or with breathless interest? If the former we shall do much to take the heart out of the heartiest climber, as actors find who have to perform before an indifferent audience. If the latter we may put into the summit-climber at a crucial moment that little added something which will just carry him up the last foot to the top. Is it worth while? That is in fact what we have to make up our minds about. The climbers evidently think that it is, or they would not be risking their lives and going through all these hardships to do it.

But do we spectators also think it worth while? Not all of us. Many think it a sheer waste of life, energy and money.

There are always those who prefer the safe flat to the risky heights. There are always those who are unable to appreciate the sacrifices and endurance required for the highest excellence on any line. Most of the Swiss contemporaries were unable to appreciate the worthwhileness of his efforts to reach the summit of Mont Blanc. Yet he, like all pioneers of high excellence, showed the way for thousands to follow after.

Turning the Scale.

The whole standard of climbing was raised by him, and to the vast enjoyment of the multitude, as can be measured in hard cash by the hotelkeepers and railway companies of Switzerland to-day.

So will it be, but on a greater scale, with the Everest climbers. They are pioneers for that higher order of enjoyment which alone will satisfy the austere, harder, more enterprising race which is now being brought forth.

Let, then, an increasing number of their fellow-countrymen show the actors in this mighty drama that they do appreciate the tremendous worthwhileness of the enterprise. Let us not sit listlessly back in our seats while the drama unfolds. But, as the climbers glance back over their shoulders, let them see us on the tip of expectation eagerly following their progress.

For that sight may just give the extra grain of spirit to them which will turn the scale on the side of success.

TAX ME — TAX MY GOLDFISH

(By Edward Kelly, Dentist.)

We've decided to come to the aid of this Colony.

The Government needs money for the Shing Mun scheme, and they seem to be under the impression that there's no source of revenue left except an income tax.

This is not strictly true. We could suggest lots and lots of ways we could be taxed. There's goldfish, for instance. Licences for goldfish.

Any found wandering about the streets without a collar and unmuzzled to be taken to the Goldfish Home, and put into the loathal chamber at the pleasure of H. E. the O.A.C. Then there's another thing. At present we have to pay Entertainment Tax. Couldn't it be arranged that there should be a Tax on the Entertainment Tax?

Might as well do the thing properly. A tax of ten per cent on all Entertainment Tax paid, so that if you pay $20 a year Entertainment Tax, all you have to do is pay $2 Tax Tax.

Then there's cats. A dog pays $5 for a licence to be a dog for one year. Nobody seems to have thought of Cat Licences. Two bucks for lady cats, and $5 for tom-cats.

Each cat should be allotted a certain tillage or rooftop, with additional fee charge for extra area above the standard allotment as fixed by the Board.

Tom-cats to be grouped in zones. Any tom-cat found out of his zone to be fined $50, and for a second offence $100, and have his milk saucer broken. A third conviction will mean the cancellation of his licence, and he will then no longer be a cat within the meaning of the act.

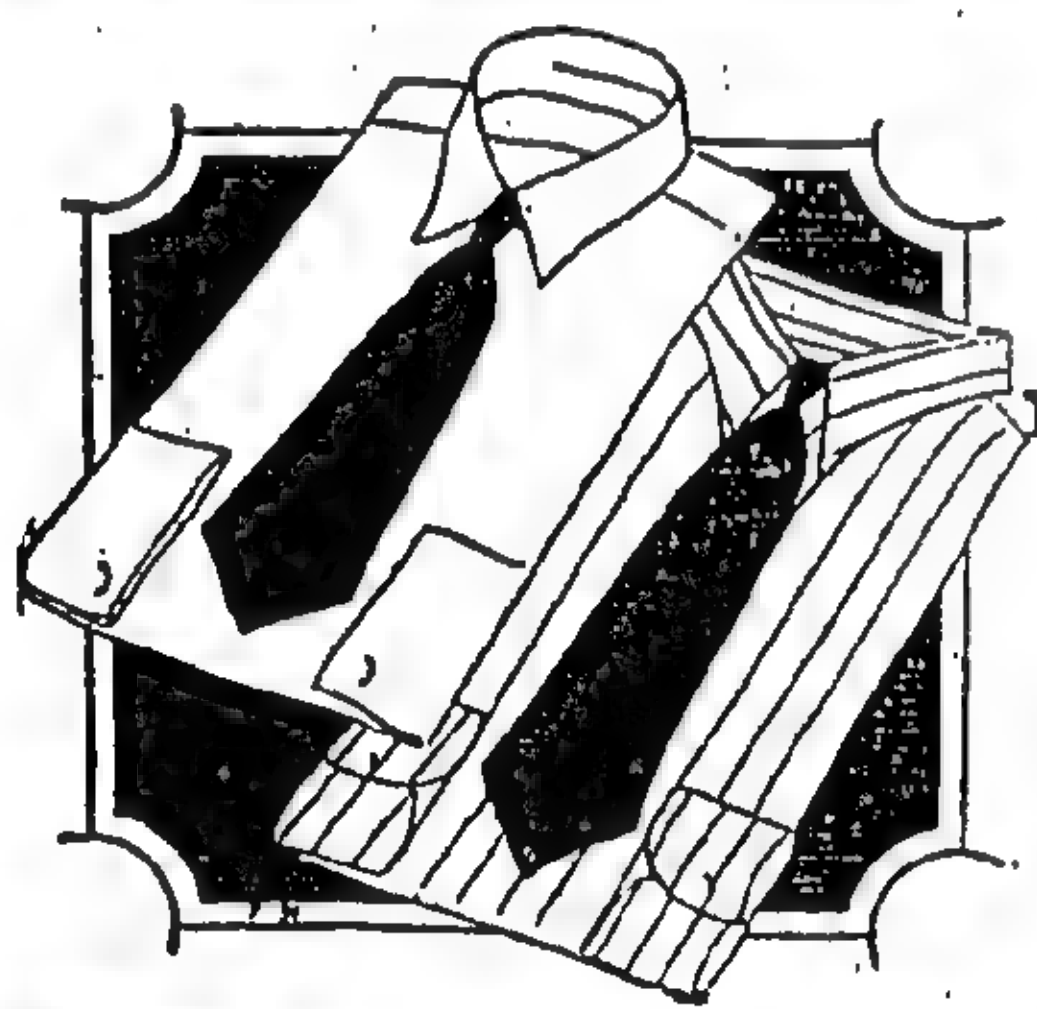

This will mean that an habitual offender deprived of his licence may be impounded for (a) Loitering in a public place. (b) Vagrancy. (c) Being a suspected person. (d) Offensive behaviour. (e) Disturbing the peace. (f) Being

A NEW RECORD SCORE

GERMANS CONCEDE ANOTHER EIGHT

(By "Bully-Off").

By defeating the Kowloon Indian Tennis Club by 10 goals to nil on Saturday the H.K. and S. Battery R.A. set up a new record in goal-scoring in the Mamak Tournament. The previous record was jointly shared by St. Andrew's and the Radio, both teams registering eight goals against the R.E.s and the German Club respectively.

The Battery were far superior to their opponents and completely outclassed them. They netted six times before the interval and during the second half added another four.

SIX 2nd HALF GOALS.

The Incognitos maintained their unbeaten record when they defeated the German Club on Saturday in a competition game. In the first half the score was changed twice, the first goal being scored by the German Club. At first sight the score would appear to indicate a very one-sided game but this was not the case for the Club offered not a little resistance. During the first half they defended well and the score changed ends with the score at two-all in favour of the Incognitos. Barrow was responsible for the scoring. The Incognitos were full value for the six goals they netted during the latter half, and those who found the net were R. C. Redd (2), E. V. Reed (2) and R. Souza. Muller replied with the only goal for the losers.

FRIENDLY GAMES.

Argylls Go Under. The Argylls were entertained at King's Park on Saturday by the Y.M.C.A. and after an evenly contested game they were defeated by two goals to nil. The Civilians showed better combination and deserved their win. In the opening half Fowler opened the account for the "Y" following a fine pass sent from Selk, and Wilson added the second goal after the interval from a pass from the left by Andrews. On a number of occasions the Argylls came near to scoring, one instance being when Bickle struck the post. In the opening exchanges of the second half Brown scored but the goal was disallowed on account of off-side play.

ST. ANDREW'S LADIES LOSE. The R.A.S.C. were opposed to St. Andrew's Ladies on the U.R.S.C. ground on Saturday and won by five goals to one. Tippie (2), Marshall (2) and O'Connor netted for the Army men and M. Woolley replied for the Ladies.

MULE CORPS BEATS BORDERERS. The meeting between the "A" Company South Wales Borderers and the Hongkong Mule Corps on the Marina Ground on Saturday was productive of some interesting hockey, and as the score, a single goal victory for the Corps, indicates, play was of an even nature.

The Borderers had most of the play during the first half and although off-side tactics spoiled many good attacks they were unlucky not to have scored on at least one occasion. The Indians put up a strong defence and their keeper did some remarkably good work. After the interval Saket Singh changed from back to inside left and this greatly improved the play of the forward line. Early in this half the Borderers goalkeeper kicked the ball into his own net but luckily for them the goal was disallowed. Play continued to be even until about ten minutes from the final whistle, when Saket Singh centred after a brilliant run on the left for Capt. Eves to net the only goal scored.

The League Table up to and including Saturday is as follows:—

STAGGERING DEFEAT OF THE CLUB

PROBLEMS FACING KOWLOON: NAVY RECEIVE A SURPRISE

DAY OF TALL SCORING IN ALL THREE DIVISIONS

A staggering defeat of the Club by the Borderers, an unexpected reverse by Kowloon at the hands of St. Joseph's, and the triumph of the Police over the Navy were some of the features of Saturday's local soccer.

Others included some high scoring, when certain games saw nine, eight and seven goals registered, and the achievement of the Athletic in beating South China in the second Division.

The local "derby" between the Kowloon and Club second strings resulted in an easy win for the mainlanders.

METAMORPHOSIS OF THE CLUB

PITIFUL DISPLAY AGAINST S.W.B.

(By "Veritas").

S.W. Borderers 7
(Jones 4, Davis 2, Pallister)
Club 1
(M. Raiton).

Although I am all for this "glorious uncertainty" associated with all sports, the uncertainty of form displayed by football teams is not so glorious.

Thus the Hongkong Club, impressively efficient as a unit and as individuals one week, go down to South Wales Borderers on Saturday and give as wretched a display as one could possibly conceive.

Never have I seen a team quite so outclassed as were the Club by the South Wales Borderers, and the fact that the soldiers won by the handsome margin of 7-1 is but a rough indication of the superiority they enjoyed.

"SHOCK" GOALS. Granted the Club were without Howe, which meant a slight disorganisation of the forward line, but this was no excuse for the positive ineptitude of the defence, who, from Skinner at centre-half, to Rodgers in goal, with Strange at intervals providing an exception, were out-paced, out-manoeuvred and left quite helpless. This metamorphosis of the Club was hard to appreciate coming as it did when there could be little to suggest such inferiority before the game started.

The Borderers early "shock" goals obviously upset the equilibrium of the Club rear line. Martin appeared to give up an unequal struggle with the soldiers left wing after the first ten minutes, and as the game progressed, became slower and less effective. Rodgers, although well and truly beaten by six of the goals, did give the Borderers their third, and never invited confidence, though one could appreciate his position.

INDOMITABLE STRANGE.

Strange alone remained an indomitable spirit, tackling with his customary verve and completely subduing his right wing opponents. Unfortunately his was a lone battle.

It was a disappointing and sorry team, which, thrown early on the defensive, could never shake off the feeling that they were doomed, and consequently played as such.

THE BRIGHTER SIDE.

The brighter side of the picture was the display of the Borderers, who indulged in high grade football. Without boasting the sheer artistry of South China, by their quick and accurate transference of the ball, and deadly shooting, they proved equally as dangerous.

There was not a weakness in the whole team, although the defence, in the early stages, when the Club went within an ace of scoring, invited feelings of misapprehension among their supporters. But once a definite lead had been established, the eleven men played as one and dominated the exchanges.

Individually Jones, at inside left, carried off the honours of the afternoon. This neat juggler of the ball, with a shot which split danger to the goalkeeper every time he applied his foot to the leather, accomplished the remarkable feat of scoring four goals in as many minutes.

They were the result of either splendid conceived team movements, or individual efforts which deserved the crown they received.

A PRETTY DANCE.

In partnership with J. Duncan, he led Rodgers and Co., a pretty dance, and it was on this side of the field that all the Club danger lay. The Borderers' vanessa, in opposite to those of the intermediates, and most of the goals were initiated by them. Mullane, Morrison and Johnson, the last lines of defence, with their work made easier by the spilling and constructive efforts of the half backs could afford to take things easy and only on rare occasion appeared likely to breakdown under pressure.

The result of the game was known within the first ten minutes, when the Borderers found themselves five goals up. They should have doubled this by half time, but as it happened failed to add another.

CLUB SCORE.

The second half started off like the first, with Davis getting through in the first three minutes, but later the Club set up some splendid raids, one of which proved successful. Strange placed a free kick to Duncan on the right wing who transferred neatly

SEASON CLOSES

The Aitkenhead Shield Competition, which marks the end of the Lawn Bowls season in Hongkong, took place on the Kowloon Bowling Green Club grounds on Saturday afternoon, Kowloon beating Hongkong for the fourth time since the competition commenced in 1928.

A large number of bowls enthusiasts witnessed the afternoon's sport while no fewer than 90 bowlers took part in the competition itself, including H.E. the Hon. Mr. W. T. Southern, C.M.G., Officer Administering the Government, who skipped one of the Hongkong rinks.

Kowloon proved too good for Hongkong and won by 39 shots, being on top in eight of the 12 rinks, with Hongkong victorious in two, the other two being drawn.

In a review of the season's activities, Mr. A. O. Brawn, the President of the Lawn Bowls Association, said the season was probably the most successful one in the history of the Association. He congratulated the Craigengower C.C. on winning both the senior and junior League Shields and for supplying these players for the Interport match in Shanghai last month. Going on, Mr. Brawn expressed the appreciation of the Association to the Kowloon Bowling Green Club for so kindly lending them the ground and for the splendid way in which they catered for the comfort and convenience of both players and spectators.

And canaries. The owner of the bird to be classed as a landlord to pay rates on the cage. There would be a wonderful opportunity for the man who prepares the Bill for the next meeting of the Legislative Council to spread himself on this. "Where there are two or more perches in the one cage, such perch or perches shall be counted as half a cage in such cage or cages. A swing or swings, hanging or dependant, or somehow fixed to the inside of the cage or cages, for the canary or canaries to swing on, shall be regarded as a perch or perches, except in such cases."

TOUCHING SCENE IN LOCAL COURT.FRIENDS REUNITED AFTER STRANGE ROUT

How the quarrel started no-one knows except the participants, but the case of Leung Lau and Kwan Ping, which was brought to the notice of the Magistrate on Saturday morning, had peculiar features.

The incident happened this way. The two men had an argument, and warming up to it, a brief exchange of blows took place. Finally, Ah Kwan picked up a clay pot and threw it at his companion. It missed Leung by inches.

Leung then proceeded to show his friend how a clay pot could be broken if thrown in the right way. The resulting throw caught Kwan in the face, smashed the pot, and injured the man.

Filled with remorse, Kwan took his erstwhile friend to hospital, and then heroically gave himself up to the Police, expecting a grave outcome to his deadly marksmanship. The telephone bell at the Station rang, and Kwan was greatly relieved to hear from the hospital that Leung was alive and well, except for a few minor cuts to his face. He offered bail and returned home.

On Saturday, before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy, Leung unreservedly admitted the assault and apparently as a proof of his repentance, pointed to a medal which he displayed on his chest. It was a Bellios Medal which Kwan received in 1930 for life-saving.

The case was settled by the Magistrate binding both men over. A touching scene was then witnessed as, reunited, the friends left the court arm-in-arm.

The Society of the Precious Blood will be holding a bazaar and sale on the 21st, 22nd, and 23rd, October at its building, Yuen Chow Street, Shumshui, in aid of its children's hospital and orphanage.

Mrs. W. T. Southern has kindly consented to perform the opening ceremony, which will take place on October 21, at 4.30 p.m. The Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall will preside.

The children's hospital has been doing excellent work. Since its opening in June 1931, it has admitted over 800 children. Dr. J. H. McElroy and Dr. Y. Y. Tang have been kind enough to give their services to the hospital gratis.

The orphanage has about 40 children under its care, and the number is increasing.

The following constitute the strong committee for the bazaar: Patroness, Mrs. Southern; Hon. President, Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall; Hon. Vice President, Mr. Richard C. H. Lim; President, Rt. Rev. Mr. Valtorta; Chairman, Mr. Andrew Tan; Vice Chairman, Mr. Fung Keong; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. T. Yung Kwong; Hon. Secretary, Miss Florence Chan; General Committee, Dr. Y. Y. Tang, Mr. W. K. Chan, Mr. S. T. Lo, Mr. S. H. Young, Mr. W. M. Chan, Mr. In Sze Lim, and Mr. W. C. Chan.

LESSON SERMON.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST,
SCIENTIST, HONGKONG

"Atonement" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, yesterday.

The Golden Text was: "I and my Father are one." (John 10: 30.)

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new. And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation." (II Cor. 5: 17-18.)

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health, with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine Truth, Life, and Love. Jesus of Nazareth taught and demonstrated man's oneness with the Father, and for this we owe him endless homage." (P. 18: 1-5.)

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

The honour and future of an ancient family are involved in the story of "The Frightened Lady," coming shortly to the Queen's, the film of the startling Edgar Wallace play that had so sensational a run at Wynham's Theatre. Ancestors of the Lebanon's fought at Blenheim, rallied to the archers at Agincourt, and acquired themselves doughtily in the Crusades. And now the present Lord Lebanon, last of the line, a slim, spectacled, naive young fellow with a high-pitched voice, and surreptitiously shadowed by a pair of American footmen, finds himself affianced to a lady for whom he has no affection. No matter! The Lebanon line must be carried on, and Asiala Crane is chosen by his strong-willed mother, Lady Lebanon, in order that the name should be perpetuated. But Asiala is frightened—an earnest young fellow, Markie Priory has given a job to his lovely fiancée's nerves, a "something" that materialises when the country seat of the Lebanons becomes the setting for two murders by strangulation. These tragedies induce the best brains of Scotland Yard to attempt a solution, thus precipitating a further tragedy that has all the elements of the dramatic and the unexpected. Cathleen Nesbitt as Lady Lebanon, Emyl Williams as Asiala Crane, Norman McKinnel as Det.-Inspector Tanner, and Gordon Barker as Sergeant Totty are included in a brilliant cast that makes of the most talked of play of the year a film that will not readily be forgotten.

"Heaven On Earth"

"A Lily in the mud." This is the description that is being applied to Anita Louise in her role in "Heaven On Earth," the Universal drama in which she is appearing opposite Lew Ayres at the Oriental Theatre to-day. A frail blonde beauty, almost ethereal in her loveliness, the youthful Anita is seen throughout the picture as a "white trash" child of the South, living among the shiftless "shanty-boaters" of the Mississippi River, and clad in a tattered dress rudely fashioned from gunny sack. Her greatest treasure is a necklace formed of several safety pins looped together. Ayres' supporting cast in "Heaven On Earth," in addition to Miss Louise, includes Harry Beresford, Elizabeth Patterson, Charles Grayson, Lew Kelly, Alf. James, Harlan Knight, Robert Burns, and many others. Russell Mack directed.

SHERIDAN PLAY AT THE UNIVERSITY

"THE RIVALS"—A BIG SUCCESS

Members of the Hongkong University Arts Association who took part in the production of R.B. Sheridan's comedy, "The Rivals," in the Great Hall of the University on Saturday night, are to be congratulated on their latest achievement.

Evidence of careful preparation was to be seen in the selection of the cast, and the facile manner with which every performer was able to perform his or her part would have done credit to a professional performance. As it turned out, the large audience present enjoyed every bit of the play and were not slow in demonstrating their appreciation.

Between the acts, musical interludes arranged by Mr. P. Mason, L.T.C.L., A.R.C.O. were contributed, by Mr. Mason, Mrs. Griggs, Mrs. Arnold, Mr. H. Leung and Mr. H. Shroeter.

The cast in "The Rivals" was as follows:

Sir Anthony Absolute Chow Kexik.
Captain Absolute Donald Anderson.
Faulkland Choy Wing Kee.
Acres Reginald Woolley.
Sir Lucius O'Trigger Walter Hunt.
Fag Stanley Broadbridge.
David S. B. Tata.
Thomas S. B. Tata.
Mrs. Malaprop Katherine Lai.
Lydia Langlish Yvonne Langley.
Julia Phyllis Kwok.
Lucy Rose Perry.
A Boy Eric Kennard.
The proceeds of the dramatic evening will go to the funds of the Society for Protection of Children, and the Yuen Wah Dispensary and Maternity Home.

HOME RULE FOR SCOTLAND.MOVEMENT GAINS FRESH
ENCOURAGEMENT

London, Oct. 16.
The Scottish Home Rule movement, which has gained a certain impetus lately from the growth of the spirit of nationalism in Scotland, has received further encouragement from Sir Herbert Samuel, who told a Scottish Nationalist delegation at Glasgow that his followers were unanimously agreed upon "Home Rule for Scotland, and that it would henceforth be a plank in their political platform.

The Scottish Liberal Federation Conference at Perth to-day passed a resolution by an overwhelming majority, calling upon Liberal M.P.'s to urge the Government to accept self-government for Scotland.

Sir Alexander McEwen, who moved the resolution, said there was no desire to separate from England.—Our Own Correspondent.

CHURCH BAZAAR HELD
ON SATURDAY.MRS. SOUTHERN OPENS FETE
AT KOWLOON

Mrs. W. T. Southern, wife of H. E. the Officer Administering the Government, opened the Cosmopolitan Bazaar held at the Kowloon Church Hall on Saturday afternoon.

In a delightful speech she complimented the workers, and wished for the undertaking the big success it deserved.

Prior to the opening ceremony, a hymn was sung, after which the Rev. E. G. Powell offered up a prayer. The Chairman, Mr. J. H. Hunt, spoke of the objects of the bazaar, which was held under the auspices of the Women's Guild, after which a word of appreciation was spoken by the Rev. Frank Short.

Needlework, toys, and novelties constituted the major stock-in-trade of the stalls, and the Church Hall, in which the function was thronged with visitors, and presented a most animated scene.

Palmyra, coconut shies, and a wishing well were amongst the other attractions, and these were well patronised.

COTTON SPINNERS'
DELIBERATIONS.COMMITTEE'S EFFORTS TO HELP INDUSTRY

Lugano, Oct. 15.

The committee of the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners and Manufacturers Associations, which has brought to a conclusion its labours, passed the following resolutions:

1. To appoint a sub-committee to study the effects of tariffs, currency restrictions, and quotas upon the cotton industry.

2. Approving the recommendations of the joint Egyptian Cotton Committee made last July, deciding to collect information and statistics of the various qualities of Egyptian cotton consumed by the motor tyre industry.

3. Approving the recommendation of the sub-committee regarding the uniform method of testing American c.i.f. cotton for moisture. It was resolved that such cotton shall contain 8½ per cent. moisture, and if less than eight the spinner shall pay the difference to the seller, but if the moisture is more than 8½ per cent. the seller shall pay the spinner the excess above that percentage.—Reuter.

BIG PLAN FOR RELIEF OF UNEMPLOYMENT.REVENUE-PRODUCING PUBLIC WORKS

London, Oct. 16.

A clamour in certain quarters that the Government should profit by the present cheapness of money to relax restrictions on productive public works developments, has borne fruit, according to some political correspondents. It is stated that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has drafted a big plan to raise a loan to relieve unemployment through public works that will be revenue-producing when completed.

It is hoped that Mr. MacDonald will make a statement on the matter at a luncheon of the National Labour Party tomorrow.—Reuter.

THE PRINCE RETURNS.

CITY WORKERS GREET H.R.H.

London, Oct. 15.
The Prince of Wales arrived in London shortly after 8 o'clock this morning on the conclusion of his Scandinavian tour, and reached Liverpool Street Station in time to meet city workers.

Upon his arrival the platform was besieged by hundreds of people, who gave the Prince an enthusiastic welcome.

The few policemen on duty had some difficulty in keeping the way clear for the Prince from the platform to his car.

The Prince responded good humouredly to the cheering of the crowds.—British Wireless.

JAPANESE FIRE ON
NANLINGTENSION INCREASED
AT JEHOI

Nanking, Oct. 15.
The tension at Jehoi has been increased following the action of Japanese troops in opening artillery fire on Nanling yesterday morning, according to a Chinese report from Tientsin.

The same report asserts that opinion in North China is divided as to whether the Japanese action is merely in the nature of a demonstration or a prelude to major operations.

Another report states that the Japanese have mobilised six brigades for a vigorous drive against the Volunteers on the eastern border of Jehoi.—Reuter.

Chaos on Railway

Harbin, Oct. 15.
The reign of lawlessness and chaos along the western section of the Chinese Eastern Railway arising from the anti-Manchukuo campaign of the Volunteers has now spread to the eastern section of the line.

Since Monday, two passenger trains and one Japanese armoured train have been wrecked and subjected to a terrific fusillade by large forces of "bandits."

The incidents occurred at different points, one 243 kilometres to the east of Harbin, one 305 kilometres from Harbin and the third five kilometres further along the line. The three trains were all wrecked, the line having been pulled up.

Attacks Beaten Off.

All attacks on the trains were, however, beaten off by Japanese soldiers, who claim to have inflicted heavy losses on the attackers.

It is reported that several Japanese soldiers and passengers were killed and others wounded, but further details are lacking.

The policy of harassing the Manchukuo Government and preventing them from establishing any semblance of order in North Manchuria is being pursued ruthlessly by the Volunteer forces, who have now rendered impossible communication on the Chinese Eastern Railway east of Imlenpo.—Reuter.

Hailers Bombarded

Harbin, Oct. 16.
Japanese aeroplanes have bombarded Hailers, inflicting considerable damage to the positions of the erstwhile Manchukuo railway guards, according to Japanese reports.

"White" Russian Rumours.
The Soviet authorities deny the "White" Russian rumours that the Volunteers have again raided the Japanese Consulate at Manchuli, and killed the Japanese Consul.—Reuter.

GENEVA DISCUSSION.

LYTTON COMMISSION GETS
AN INVITATION

Geneva, Oct. 14.
Members of the Lytton Commission have been invited by the League Council to attend the deliberations of their report.

It is believed this invitation has been extended in accordance with the wishes of the Commissioners, to enable them to expand points that may be raised.

The most important aspect of this position is that it definitely associates the United States with the handling of the Lytton report, because General McCoy, the American member of the Commission, will therefore attend.—Reuter.

WOODRUFF MURDER

HARBIN POLICE ARREST
25 SUSPECTS

Tokyo, Oct. 15.
According to reports from Harbin, 25 suspects have been arrested in connexion with the murder of Mrs. Woodruff, and a grilling examination has revealed that two of them are apparently responsible, including Chang Nan-yan, an ex-soldier and leader of a notorious gang of kidnappers.

The police claim to have found that the same gang was responsible for the attack on the British bankers on the Harbin golf course on September 10.

It is believed that the gang has political backing, as recent outrages appear to have been carried out systematically for the purpose of embarrassing the authorities in their relations with foreign Powers.—Reuter.

Future Protection

Peking, Oct. 15.
A report from Harbin states that the Consular Corps held a meeting to discuss the safety of foreign residents, and the chief of police who promised to improve the policing of the city.—Reuter.

Freedom in Sight

Xingkow, Oct. 15.
The safety of Mrs. Pawley and Mr. Charles Corkran, who are held captive by bandits, is now definitely assured as a result of parleys with the bandits by Japanese military authorities, who are negotiating for the release of the unfortunate couple.

Mr. Clarke, the British Vice-Consul, and Captain Staples, who have been co-operating with the Japanese authorities, have returned from Panchum accompanied by Captain Kawahito.—Reuter.

Negotiations Proceed.

Newchwang, Oct. 15.
Japanese military authorities have had parleys with the captors of Mrs. Muriel Pawley and Mr. Charles Corkran, and have been definitely assured of their safety.

Negotiations for their release are now taking shape.—Reuter.

GERMANY EXCITED

CONFRONTS CABINET

Berlin, Oct. 15.
Exciting rumours are afloat following the unexpected meeting of the Cabinet to consider a storm of protests over the project to ration agricultural imports.

The Cabinet dealt, inter alia, with a letter from Dr. Luther, President of the Reichsbank, who, according to the newspapers, warned the Government of the impossibility of maintaining the stability of currency unless the quota project be abandoned.

Anxiety has been partly allayed by an official denial that Dr. Luther's letter implies a dangerous situation in the position of the mark, but it is anticipated that the Government will be compelled at least to postpone the project.

The quota system was the price paid by the Papen-Schleicher Government for the support of the agriculturists. It aroused the bitter opposition of the industrialists, and threats of reprisals from neighbouring countries.—Reuter.

WONDERFUL WATER
SCHEME.ANOTHER STAGE IN THE
LOCHABER VENTURE

London, Oct. 15.
Another stage in the progress of the Lochaber Water Power scheme has been reached with completion, this week, of the Laggan pressure tunnel, three miles long and more than fifteen feet in diameter, through which the waters of Loch Laggan and the Spean River will be turned into Loch Treig in Invernesshire, Scotland.

The scheme, which is being undertaken by private enterprise, includes some of the biggest engineering works of their kind ever carried out in Great Britain. It is designed to tap the Scottish Lochs in order to produce electrical energy for the manufacture of aluminium.

When completed the installed plant will have a capacity of 130,000 horsepower, which will operate on a continuous basis.

The scheme draws on a catchment area of 303 square miles. The Works include three major, and fourteen smaller dams, 18 miles of pressure tunnels, and one mile of pipe line and tail race.

Striking Feature.
A striking feature is the Ben Nevis tunnel, 15 miles long and about 15 feet in diameter, the driving of which through granite and schist was successfully completed in 1929. This tunnel, which is lined with a mass of concrete, is the biggest thing of its kind in the British Empire. It carries the water of Loch Treig under the mountains to a steel pipe line connected to the power house of the factories at Fort William.

The damming of Loch Treig will raise its level by 40 feet, and thus would submerge a mile and a half of railway line, which has been lifted, without dislocation of traffic by 45 feet.

About 1,000 men are employed on the construction of the dams and tunnel.—British Wireless.

IRISH PARLEY FAILS

£250,000,000!

London, Oct. 15.
The Anglo-Irish negotiations, in connexion with the financial matters in dispute, have failed.—Reuter.

London, Oct. 16.
The last stage of the abortive Anglo-Irish conference in London between the Government and the Irish Free State was the revival of the original proposal for arbitration, when it was obvious that settlement by the tribunal by direct negotiations had failed, but the old difficulty as to whether the tribunal should be drawn exclusively from the Empire proved a final stumbling block.

Those Land Annuities.
It is understood that the Free State delegates are aggrieved that their "reasoned case" met with a negative attitude from the beginning. On the other hand, according to British political correspondents, the British refused to concede the basic Irish claim that land annuities were illegal.

Mr. De Valera is alleged to have argued from the novel viewpoint that according to the various treaties and agreements, Britain is theoretically indebted to Ireland for a sum approaching £250,000,000.—Reuter.

STRIKE THREAT OFF.

BELFAST TRADE UNIONS
ACCEPT TERMS

Belfast, Oct. 15.
The Trade Unions have accepted the revised terms for outdoor relief, and have declared the proposed General Strike off.—Reuter.

20 Per Cent Increase.

Belfast, Oct. 14.
Minor incidents connected with the unrest and dissatisfaction among the unemployed continue daily.

The possibility of a general strike, urged by the Trades Council, is, however, believed to have been definitely averted.

The situation has improved considerably as a result of the decision of the Ministry for Home Affairs to increase outdoor relief from 40 to 60 per cent.

Official Measures.

The Ministry has also agreed that the outdoor relief workers who refused to carry on owing to the low rate of pay will be allowed to resume without victimization.

The Corporation of Belfast is assisting in removing the social unrest by providing for additional distress relief works to which the Government of Northern Ireland will contribute half the cost.—Reuter.

"CONGORILLA"

First screenings of "Congorilla" during the week-end at the King's Theatre have drawn favourable comments from the critics. The exciting "encounters" between man and beast, or between one dozen of the jungle and another, without which previous animal productions have not been complete, are conspicuously absent from the picture, which bears the mark of authenticity throughout, and can be accepted as a sober record of life in the African jungle. The animal order unique to the African jungle is all shown in its natural surroundings, and interesting details regarding its mode of being are clearly depicted with the assistance of the telescopic lens.

One of the most notable features of the production is that connected with the life of the pygmies, having their habitat in the Congo forests. Previous reports of the existence of this strange people which have generally elicited scepticism are here proved to be no figment of the imagination. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson have achieved one of the principal objects of their expedition when they found this race and lived with them as shown for a considerable time.

Sound accompaniment and a running patter by Mr. Johnson, also recorded in the picture, help towards the understanding of the hazardous nature of the trek across the continent and to a just appreciation of its value.

FIT AND CONFIDENT

SHANGHAI TENNIS PLAYERS HERE

FIRST PRACTICE TO-DAY

FINCHER SKIPPERS HONGKONG

(By "Veritas".)

Looking fit and quietly confident of their ability to retain the Interport tennis trophy, the Shanghai tennis team arrived in Hongkong this morning by the President Hoover.

Led by Mr. John L. Wade, one of the cleverest and most popular tennis players in the Northern port, the team includes P. Canavaro, Gordon Lum and Guy Cheng.

They were greeted by officials of the Lawn Tennis Association, including Mr. C. P. F. James (Hon. Secretary), Mr. D. S. Green (Hon. Treasurer), and Mr. E. C. Fincher.

Expressing themselves well pleased with the voyage, the players were unanimous in their eagerness to acquaint themselves with the tennis courts. When asked how they viewed their prospects for the Interport, they smilingly shook their heads, and refused to be drawn.

YOUNGEST MEMBER.

Guy Cheng, who is the youngest member of the party, is making his first trip to Hongkong for 12 years, and his first appearance in Interport tennis. Well built, with a splendid physique, Cheng promises to become a very popular victor both on and off the courts.

He told me that he was still studying for his B. A. Degree, "but every day I am on the tennis courts" he laughingly added. He comes here with the reputation of being one of the fiercest hitters in

WOMAN HIT WITH CLOG

YOUNG MAN TO PAY COMPENSATION

An elderly woman appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Magistracy to-day with three stitches in her upper lip where it had been cut by a blow with a wooden clog. Keung Leung, 26, was accused of having caused the injury.

Inspector Dick, prosecuting, said the woman kept a hiring library for a living, and had occasion to call on a customer for the return of books long overdue. The man, who kept a goods stall, was absent but Keung Leung, his fook, was there when the woman called.

"She kept asking me for the books although it was not I who hired them from her," he said. He complained of her conduct in deliberately upsetting his stall and strewn his goods on the ground.

His Worship pointed out that Keung Leung was not justified in taking the law into his own hands. On a point of compensation, Inspector Dick told his Worship that it was a Government doctor who attended to the woman, but an ambulance had been used for her conveyance to hospital and that had cost $3.

His Worship's decision was that defendant should make good this expense and also to pay $5 compensation to the woman. Furthermore, he was fined $10, or 14 days in default of payment of this fine.

Shanghai and a perfect marvel at the net.

Gordon Lum, looking very much fitter than in '29, tried to make me believe that he is now an old man, but his colleagues were nowise in agreement and told me that he was playing as well, if not better, than ever.

HONOUR FOR "TERRY"

The players, very enthusiastic, immediately requested an opportunity for a knock-out this afternoon, a request which met with an instant response. Arrangements have been made for the Shanghai men to have their first practice at the I.C.C. at 3.45 this afternoon, and it is quite on the cards that from this Mr. Wade will make his final decision as to the composition of the doubles pairs.

ARRIVES WITHOUT PASSPORT

At one time employed in the Hongkong Police Force as a guard, Mewa Singh appeared before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court this morning on a charge of being in the Colony without a proper passport.

Prosecuting, Mr. T. Murphy, A.S.P., said the accused resigned last June from the Guards, since when nothing had been heard of him until he turned up again on the 10th of this month and asked to be re-instated. An inspection of his papers showed that he had been to Shanghai in the meantime and, upon leaving that port, was furnished with a certificate which was valid only for a journey to India via Hongkong. He had broken the journey here.

When his application for re-enlistment was refused and it was pointed out to him that there was another ship on the 22nd on which he could continue his trip home, Mewa Singh refused. The attitude he took up was "I am going to stay here; you can do what you like with me."

In reply to the charge, Mewa Singh said he was a sick man, and just now could not make the journey.

Mr. Murphy:—I believe he is an addict to opium.

The A.S.P. remarked that the probability would be that the Government would be asked to repatriate the defendant, but in order to avoid that and at the same time to see what the man could do for himself, he would ask for a week's remand and bail. His Worship granted the remand and fixed the bail at $50.

been given the much deserved honour of leading the Hongkong team and he can be assured of the sympathetic support of one and all in his important task.

M. K. LO INJURED.

I learn with regret that Mr. M.K. Lo, who with his brother "M.W." is playing as No. 2 doubles pair for Hongkong next week-end, yesterday met with an accident whilst playing tennis, injuring his foot.

Fortunately it is not serious, being a slight strain, and Mr. Lo, who returned to business to-day, will be perfectly fit for the Interport.
